Did Deseronto get OHRP grant or not?

Clarke Rollins, MPP, Hastings-Peterborough, was quick to get news of the Ontario Home Renewal Program grants to his constituents in Deseronto.

Before the town had had official notification from Queen's Park, the Scanner had received a news release from Mr. Rollins advising that Deseronto had received an accountable advance in the amount of $40,000 and two days later, Deseronto's mayor, John Neal, got a letter from Mr. Rollins, congratulating the town on the grant.

At that time, Mayor Neal still had no official notification that such a grant was on its way...let alone receipt of any grant money.

The news about the grant wasn't good news anyway. According to the press release, the $40,000 may represent the total funds available at this particular time for Deseronto.

'Under the regulations, the town was eligible for a maximum of $60,000, and we asked for that amount,' Carman Milligan, clerk treasurer said. 'And even if we had got the full amount, we could only have handled about 12 to 15 applications.'

Last year, the town only got $35,000... part of the OHRP grant. The rest of the $60,000 grant didn't arrive because the provincial program ran out of funds.

Average application last year was for $5,000. Although 39 applications were received, only 6 could be processed. With only enough money for another 8 this year, 25 property owners who wanted to get loans or grants under the program will still be out of luck.

'We're coming back again' ... boaters say. They liked Deseronto's hospitality

Deseronto really put on a good show this past weekend, when the Lions Club hosted the North American Championship races for formula outboards.

'I'm coming back next year, even if I have to walk,' one of the visitors was heard to remark. He had had a lot of trouble getting here but Deseronto's hospitality really pleased him.

Everyone had pitched in to make the day a success and the weatherman cooperated with blue skies and a bit of breeze.

St. John Ambulance people were on hand but there were only two minor accidents in the races and no serious injuries.

Mac Maclean, race chairman, spent most of his day at the pits. Don Lindsay, also on the Lions Club race committee, was official photog rapher. Other Lions manned the admission gates and helped with parking. The three parking lots, handled by the Sea Cadets, the Scouts, and the Minor Hockey Association did a good business despite the fact that some visitors found free spots along the town's streets.

Probably the hottest spot at Centennial Park on Sunday was the United Church Women's booth. The women were right in the sun all day and, during the day, cooked and sold over 400 hamburgers. The Sophiasburgh Volunteer Firemen served out 12 five-pound boxes of hot dogs, and a lot of chips and other goodies.

In addition to making all the arrangements necessary for the holding of the races, the Lions had managed to

Remember When ?? Old cards recall World War I

The English have always been known for their ability to tackle a tough job...even a war... with their sense of humour intact, as these reproductions of some old postcards show.

The cards were two of a set of 11 found by Fletcher and Freda Vick of Deseronto when they were going through some mementos saved by Walford E. Vick of Bloomfield.

The late Mr. Vick came to Canada when he was 17 and was manager of Canadian Canners before his death, some years ago.

The cards carry a 'Bystander' copyright and the drawings were done by Bruce Bairnsfather...at least that is our interpretation of the signature appearing on each card.

Some of our readers may have more information about the postcards or the artist and can correct us if we have the name wrong. We'd be interested in hearing from anyone who does know more about them.

We're hoping, in particular, to get a reply from one reader who lives in Ingersoll, down near London, Ontario...Stanley J. Smith. Stan has been retired for quite a few years now but when your editor was putting out the daily paper in Woodstock, the Sentinel-Review, Stan brought a ray of sunshine when he walked into the editorial room with his handful of amusing historical articles about old Oxford County.

He also had a lot of stories about the First World War when he put out a paper to cheer up his trench-mates. It was called 'The Listening Post'. Some of our readers who were in those front line troops may remember those issues with fond nostalgia.

An isolated case...not an epidemic

The death of a child on the Tyndinaga Reserve from spinal meningitis, has caused some alarm in the area, but, according to Dr. M.G. Fisher of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, there is no threat of an epidemic.

'Meningitis is communicable,' he said, 'but in this instance it was a sporadic case.'

'An isolated case such as this one is not a public health matter, but a private health matter, and the Health Unit is not directly involved. If it were an epidemic, it would be a public health matter,' he said.

The disease is usually spread by direct contact with the person or from contact with the immediate air around the patient. It is usually related to respiratory infection and droplets spread in the air.

The incidence of the disease is probably related to a pattern of respiratory diseases. Meningitis peaks in late autumn, winter and spring.

In the United States, there are about 40 cases per 100,000 children in a year, and the fatality rate varies from 2% to 18%, depending on availability of facilities and treatment.

'We do see the odd case that goes badly and the patient dies,' Dr. Fisher said.

Young Canada Works program underway

Five young people are already at work in Deseronto under the Young Canada Works program on the main project for this year...landscaping the area to the west of the arena. The area is a swampy and brushy tract, owned by the town.

Deseronto got a grant of $7,330 from the federal Government for 10 weeks of work, for each of five people.

This action shot was taken by Jim Dobbin from the official time-keeper's barge.

POST OFFICE SERVICE

Doesn't it seem peculiar that when the post office is getting all kinds of complaints about service, they should be cutting down on their services in this area?

Starting on July 8, there will be no over-the-counter business on Saturdays in the post offices in the Belleville office jurisdiction...from Napanee to Cobourg and from Picton to Bancroft. Wickets will be closed, although the lobbies will be open for people to pick up their mail if they have a post office box.

They still intend to sort mail behind the scenes on Saturday and, hopefully, they'll dispatch it out of the offices on Saturdays too...otherwise the mail will sit there from Friday night until Monday morning.

They will save a bit of money by closing the wickets on Saturdays, but it will be at the expense of people who have counted on part time or casual work to keep going.

The Deseronto post mistress, Louise Leader, said the new cut-back would mean at least two hours less work a week for each of two employees, a permanent part-time employee and a casual employee.

In Picton, one of the two permanent part-time employees has left the job. He had been a permanent part-time worker for the past three years and had been a casual employee for about two years before that. He told the Scanner that, basically, it was a matter of both of the two part-time people taking less work, or of one leaving and the other having enough to carry on with.

Saturday delivery to city homes was stopped about 10 years ago.

The new closing of the over-the-counter service on Saturdays is part of a cross Canada post economy measure...an experiment 'to bring the post office in step with the rest of the business world which does not work on Saturdays'.

Quinte Old Timers

The Quinte Old Timers are holding a pot luck picnic on August 9. Elsie Palmer invited the members to have it at her home. Time is 5:00 p.m. Everyone is to bring their own plates, etc.

Members are reminded about the boat trip scheduled for July 10. The group will meet at the post office at 7:15 a.m. and the bus will leave around 7:30 a.m.

Who do they think they are kidding? Stores don't close on Saturdays and small towns get a lot of their rural customers on that day. Many of these customers have business to transact at a post office too.

Canada Post should remember that it too is supposed to be providing a service for the community and that service should be available when the people who need it can get there.

LETTER

A THANK YOU FROM CARL BEATTIE

Dear Editor & Citizens of the Town of Deseronto:

It is 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon of June 28th and I have four hours of official duty left as your Chief of Police. This letter will be my last official act and it is to thank you for your co-operation and acceptance over the past ten years.

It has been my policy over the ten years to try to make our town a better place to live and I am leaving with personal pride that I have assisted in achieving that goal. I must point out that I am fully aware that a leader is only as good as those he works with. The town has and has had some of the best.

To the present Council and past members of Council my sincere thanks for your co-operation. With both myself and members of Council past and present being fully aware that we did not always see things the same way and come to an easy agreement, I feel that both parties had only the Town of Deseronto's best interests at heart.

To my successor, I pledge my full support and assistance, if necessary. May he continue to receive the same respect and loyalty that I have experienced.

Thank you all,
C.C. Beattie

Well, I reckon they had quite a shindig over to Deseronto this last weekend. More of them boat races, something like they have on the REach every year.

Now I can't say as watching stinkpots roar round and round is my idea of a afternoon's fun, but everybody to their own taste. Reckon anything that livens the place up has to be good for Deseronto. That little town went so far down that it were reaching up for rock

Probation officer here to discuss new program

Grant Sexsmith, a probation officer with the Ministry of Correctional Services in Napanee, was in Deseronto last week to discuss with some town representatives the possibility of introducing a new program for law breakers in the area.

In some municipalities, judges are handing out sentences of performing so many hours work in the municipality. Belleville is doing some of this but the program is not underway in Napanee.

'We could be the start of it in this area,' Carman Milligan, Deseronto town clerk, said. 'I think it would work.'

When asked about complaints from people who want to work and can't find jobs, Mr. Milligan said, 'There might be some complaints about taking jobs away but they would be jobs that just wouldn't get done otherwise because we haven't the budget for them. We would have to raise taxes to give the improved service.'

What kind of jobs might the law breakers do?

One example Mr. Milligan gave was sweeping streets...a 'time-consuming' job.

bottom after its big boom years ago. Things is picking up now, the Main Street don't look like no ghost town no more. Even got a drug store they have, and shop fronts filling in all the time.

Anyways, as I said, I heard it were quite the day. The Lions done a good job organizing, though I hear the fellers over in Picton helped out, with their experience on the Gold Cup Races they knew their way around a bit.

Was eavesdropping the other day in Picton, and I hear that Don King ain't too pleased. He went over to see the races, but Deseronto's mayor didn't show up, so I hear, and he figured that weren't too good. Suppose different guys have different ideas about what they should oughter do as mayor.

Talking about mayors. Did you read in the paper that list of all the presents our Harvey sent to Nixon when he were president? All sorts of gee gaws, don't rightly know what he figured Nixon would want 'em for. But then, that was Harvey. I mind the story about him going to see the Lord Mayor of London, and introducing his self as a fellow mayor. Not that their ain't no sense difference between Picton and London town. Reckon it's only a matter of size and a few million people.

Oh well, come fall, they'll all be fighting it out again. Things has been pretty quiet around our way, but there's stirring already in Deseronto. Like I said, that town's really starting in to move - and all the politicians is gearing up ready to move with her.

HOT WEATHER MEALS

When the mercury maintains itself in the too-hot-to-do-anything zone, as it has done for the past few weeks, a homemaker must have several 'cool' recipes at his/her fingertips. The garpacho recipe that we suggested you save back in April would be ideal right now.

Salads are hot weather dinner fare, but variety is important or your family might chorus 'What, again?' This week's recipes feature three salads that are different in their seasoning, and one salad has the advantage of using up that left-over cooked roast of beef or pot roast.

ZESTY CHEESE COLE SLAW

Cabbage, shredded, 2 cups
Sharp cheese, in ½ inch cubes, ¼ cup
Onion, grated, 1 tsp.

Mayonnaise, 2 tbsp.
Horseradish, 1 tsp.
Oil, 2 tbsp.
Vinegar, 1 tbsp.
Salt & pepper to taste
Combine all ingredients. Makes 4 servings.

ORANGE SALAD

Oranges, large, 5
White onion, thinly sliced
Salad oil, 1/3 cup
Wine vinegar, ¼ cup
Sugar, 1 tsp.
Salt, ½ tsp.
Chili powder, ¼ tsp.
Paprika

Peel oranges, cutting away white membrane, and slice.

Arrange orange and onion slices alternately in a bowl. Mix the oil, vinegar, sugar, salt, chili powder; pour over the salad. Sprinkle with paprika.

If you wish, serve on crisp lettuce. Makes 8 servings.

MARINATED BEEF SALAD

Cooked lean beef cut in strips, 4 cups
Onion, large, thinly sliced, 1
Capers, 2 tbsp.
Parsley, minced, 2 tsp.
Salad oil, ½ cup
Wine vinegar, ¼ cup
Oregano, crumbled, 1 tsp.
Prepared mustard, 1 tsp.
Salt, ½ tsp.

Put the meat strips on a rimmed platter and cover with the sliced onions. Sprinkle with the capers and parsley. Mix together all the other ingredients. Pour over the meat and onions, cover, and chill at least 3 hours to mingle flavours. Makes six servings.

'I'm going to use it for the down payment on my retirement,' Paul Foster of Brockville said when he won $50 by 'hitting the bullseye' at the golf driving range at Club Tyendinaga on Highway 49, Sunday. The 63-year-old man, who was visiting with Genevieve Newcomb and her son, Reg. of Hillier, has only played a few games of golf in his life but enjoyed the driving range. He says he'll be back once a week to build up his retirement fund — the $50 prize is a standing one. Shown with Mr. Foster are Paul and Helen Brant, owners of the Club.

Plenty on the agenda for Authority

Deborah Connors, one of the students sponsored by the Authority, has been chosen to participate in the Junior Conservationist Award Program

LIBRARY NOTES

In honour of Canada Day, the library released a number of new volumes concerning the nation.

There is Morton's 'This Land, These People', a history of Canada with colourful pictures. There is Mika's 'Leading Ladies Canada' and also 'The Canadian Guide to Hme Entertaining'.

Food for thought is available in Troyer's 'No Safe Place', an absorbing study of mercury pollution in Canada.

See the selection of Canada material at the library.

Parents please note that on July 10, at 11.00 a.m., the Deckhands will be giving a puppet show at the library. 'The Magic Mushrooms' and 'The Musicians of Bremen' will be the two plays performed. If your young ones are beginning to complain that there's nothing around to do, send them to the puppet show.

In answer to the lady who asked us about the bread token, there was a bakery on Dundas Street close to a century ago which used tokens. The library staff has not been able to find out the name of it, however.

and the Authority approved a contribution of $25 towards her travelling expenses.

A letter was received from Olden Township concerning flood problems in Mountain Grove. The Authority members had viewed this problem on a recent bus tour and felt it was a drainage problem which could be dealt with under the Municipal Drainage Act. The letter was filed.

A report from Glendon Moore and Ronald Runions on their trapping results during the 1977-78 season, raised a suggestion that the Authority call for tenders on the trapping right. This will be discussed further at a fall meeting.

The Authority agreed to request the Ministry of Environment to sample the Orser Lagoon in Portland Township periodically.

B. Allen, chairman of the water control advisory board reported that the flood management meeting held June 15 was well received. Tyendinaga Council members were impressed and would like to see more of these meetings held. Two islands in the Salmon River need to be cleaned up this year.

G. Richardson, chairman of the Bellock Mill advisory board reported that W. Hickey has been hired and is working full time for approximately a month. The board wants to get the mill open to receive additional grants. Three things are required, lighting, paths, and a saw aligned to do some sawing. The $5,000 funding for the restoration of the mill is to be requested from the Township of Portland.

Deadline for applications for Canada Works Program for 1978-79 was June 24. In its application, the Authority suggested work for storage building, shelters and trail construction.

BAD NEWS FOR TOOTH FAIRY

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit Dental Services, is planning a fluoride clinic for two weeks during the summer... from July 10 to July 14, and from August 10 to 17.

This is a free preventative service for children ages 5 to 9 years who are residents in the counties. The children must be accompanied by a responsible adult.

Treatment is by appointment only. Telephone number is 966-5500.

COST-CUT PROPOSALS

Trustee B. Hockley of the Hastings School Board has given notice that he will move, or cause to be moved, a motion at the September board meeting that 'the Hastings County Board of Education review the function and relevance of all administrative positions in the system, and terminate those not essential. Reviews, and where necessary, freeze, roadblock, or otherwise adjust administrative salaries to reflect the ability of the local economy to pay.'

That should reassure taxpayers that someone is on their side.

SMOKING HOUSES ??

They're using smoke in Picton to test for leaks in the town's sewer system and residents have been asked to report any leaks they see in their homes.

The smoke is harmless.

Part of the sewer system is some 70 years old and may be replaced.

SCHOOL TAX PROTEST

A few weeks ago, it was the Township of Adolphustown which was refusing to pay the high levy for county school taxes.

Now it is the Township of North Marysburgh in Prince Edward County that is digging in its heels. The Township Council passed a resolution to restrict payment of the 1978 education tax levy to an amount equaling that of the previous year.

Whether they can do this or not is still not settled.

Anyway, thanks for trying. With less of the school costs coming from Provincial taxes now, municipal taxpayers are sure being asked to carry a big share of the load.

HOW DRY WE ARE

A four-week experiment to induce rainfall by cloud seeding as an aid to forest fire fighting will be conducted jointly by Environment Canada's Atmospheric Environment Service and the National Research Council between June 19 and July 14 in northwestern Ontario.

Maybe they could move the project a little further south. With all the dry weather we've been having around here, we could use a bit of that service too.

BAHA'I FAITHQUESTION:

If there is no clergy, how are the affairs of the Baha'i Faith administered?

ANSWER:

They are administered by Houses of Justice (at present called Spiritual Assemblies) composed of nine members each. These assemblies are elected annually by all Baha'is resident within each local community.

The national affairs of the Faith are administered by a National House of Justice (National Spiritual Assembly) elected by delegates at an annual convention.

The global affairs are administered by The Universal House of Justice, also democratically elected. These institutions were established in the Holy Writings.

MEDICAL ASSISTANCE FOR TRAVELLERS

Most of the time I don't open junk mail but the other day I did so by accident and found something very interesting and useful. It was the 1978 Directory of IAMAT, the International Association for Medical Assistance to Travellers.

We have all heard hair-raising tales from friends who have taken ill in foreign lands. IAMAT was formed as a non-profit organization to help travellers who are stricken on their travels to other countries. It also provides the most thorough world climate charts I have seen and information about the sanitary and health conditions in different parts of the world.

A directory of participating physicians in almost every country in the world is provided. IAMAT will also send:

...the membership card making you eligible for IAMAT's services outside your own country.

...the Traveller Clinical Record on which IAMAT's physicians around the world can keep track of your medical condition. This is particularly valuable to people with chronic illnesses such as coronary heart disease, asthma, diabetes etc.

...the World Immunization and Malaria Risk Chart which indicates all required and recommended immunizations for every country. Countries with a risk of malaria are also listed.

Participating physicians and institutions do not pay any membership fees. They only pledge to assist travellers in need of medical care on a twenty-four hour basis at the fees shown in the directory.

There is no charge or membership fee for this service. IAMAT is financed through voluntary contributions from you and other travellers. All donations are tax exempt.

The World Climate Charts are an exclusive feature of IAMAT and have been published in order to raise funds for the construction of the International Centre for the Study of the Medical Aspects of Travel.

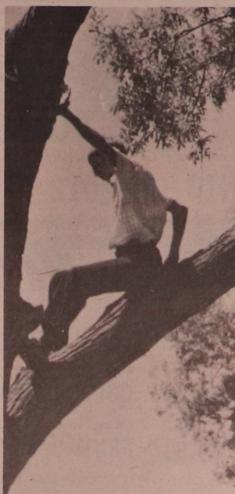

These charts are available to those members who wish to support the Centre with a substantial donation (I don't know what a substantial donation is). They come only in sets of 24. Requests for specific destinations cannot be honoured.

If you want to know what to take along for clothing, there is another chart showing whether you will need sunglasses or 10-inch boots on your trip.

And, of course, there are places where you shouldn't eat a salad, but how about cheese and butter? In some countries dairy foods are a no-no. In a lot of places, foods you wouldn't suspect are potentially dangerous. They are all listed in the IAMAT charts.

All in all, this is a most useful package of information for travellers, probably something you should not travel without.

To become a member, just write to IAMAT, 1268 St. Clair Ave. West, Toronto, Ontario, M6E 1B9.

HAPPENINGS

Mrs. L. Gordanier and her sister, Mrs. C. Young, have returned home after a most enjoyable trip to the Pas Manitoba, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gordanier and family.

Kay Manderville, Federal Liberal candidate for Prince Edward-Hastings, and her husband, Dr. Gene Manderville, were among the many people attending the boat races in Deseronto on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Hearn of Thomas Street, entertained members of their family on July 1. Present were Mrs. R. Brant, Janet and Jennifer of Belleville; Mr. Larry Hearn and friend, Brockville; Mr. and Mrs. G. Hearn, Leslie, Allison and Johnny, Don and Tom Gendron, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Howard, Oshawa; Miss Christine Vintner, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. F. O'Neill, Nananee.

Clayton Moon comes out of the burning house for a breath of air

Heavy smoke prevented Deseronto firemen from entering house to check on occupants

Last Thursday, just after noon, Deputy Reeve B. Johnston heard what he thought was a blasting whistle and looked out the window to see what was going on. Smoke was pouring out of the house behind him, belonging to Mrs. Beatrice Woodcock, Main Street.

The smoke was so thick and the heat so intense that Deseronto firemen could not get into the building at first, to see if anyone was still inside. Fortunately, Mrs. Woodcock had gone shopping in Napanee and her son Donnie, who works at Shellar Globe, was also out.

What happened to plant capacity?

'When I was paying $9, I had lots of water. Now I'm paying $16 and I haven't,' was Deputy Reeve B. Johnston's comment when Deseronto Council read a recommendation from the Ministry of the Environment that a lawn watering restriction by-law be passed.

'We were given to understand the plant was capable of all kinds of capacity. Now, suddenly, we have to restrict consumption. That surprises me,' Mr. Johnston said.

The town's water consumption has increased drastically during the past few weeks. S.K. Grey, Operations Officer, Utility Operations at the Ministry's Kingston office, said in a letter. This increase is due to lawn watering. The plant is designed to treat 600,000 gallons a day or 416 gallons a minute and the average consumption per person per day is 100 gallons. But, in June, the plant has been averaging 750 gallons per minute with peak flows of 900 gallons per minute.

These flows, Mr. Grey said, are greatly exceeding plant design and are causing a shortage of water in the standpipe and clear well. Chemical, power and labour costs are also greatly increased during these periods.

Council decided to hold the matter over until the next meeting, and the second Monday in August, and invite Mr. Grey to the meeting.

Maybe the dry spell will be over by then and no decision will have to be made.

Before the flames were finally extinguished, most of the inside of the house had been gutted.

'It's unlivable and I imagine we will have to tear it down,' Mrs. Woodcock said. 'Only the garage and the laundry room were not too badly burned.'

All her personal belongings and clothes were destroyed. 'I didn't even have a dress to wear,' she said.

Mrs. Woodcock and her husband, the late Roy Woodcock, had bought the house almost four years ago. 'He was so proud of it,' she said. 'We sold our place on Maple Street and put a lot of money into this one. The mortgage was all paid.'

The house was insured.

Cause of the fire was a pan of oil, used for French fries, which had been left on the stove.

Mrs. Woodcock and her son are now staying with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie French.

OPEN AND SHUT CASE

Post office wicket hours keep changing while officials consult with the union

Somebody up there in Canada's Postal Service has changed his (or her) mind again and the sign on the Deseronto post office door, which last week informed people the wickets would be closed on Saturdays, starting July 8, has now been changed to a new sign alerting customers to the fact that the wickets will be open on Saturdays.

But the picture hasn't changed in Picton. There the wickets did start closing last Saturday.

According to Postmaster Wainwright in Belleville, the Deseronto post office is a semi-staff one, paid through revenues. The Picton office is a staff office where employees belong to the union.

And the semi-staff post offices in the district will continue to have wickets open on Saturdays while postal officials carry on consultation with the union.

Last week, the Scanner carried an editorial concerning the cut-off of over-the-counter Saturday service at local post offices. We deplored another cut in service provided and the loss of working hours for part-time employees who depend on the money for living expenses.

One of the two part-time permanent employees at the Picton post office resigned because it was a matter of both of the part time employees taking less work or of one leaving and the other having enough to carry on with.

'We knew he had resigned, but not why,' said Mark Lucas, president of the Belleville Local, Canadian Union of Postal Workers who called the Scanner after he read the editorial. 'We're going to do as much as we can to help him.'

'His work hours had been cut from 28 to 20 hours a week. If you're getting less than 20 hours a week, it isn't enough to live on.'

'Our proposal to lessen the impact of technological change on Canada's massive unemployment would be for all part time work to be scheduled so each person gets 20 hours a week.' And he suggested that 'full time work could be reduced to a 30-hour week with wage scale adjusted so there would be no loss of income for the full time worker.'

As an example of post office waste of money in other ways, he mentioned a new pamphlet the Belleville post office is handing out telling people about their services. They were given 35,000... enough to give everybody 10 copies.

Not filling vacancy on town council

Deseronto Council has decided not to fill the vacancy on council left by the resignation of Lyndon W. Thomlison, chairman of the Fire and Police Committee.

In tendering his resignation, Mr. Thomlison said that his employment now makes it necessary to be away from town frequently and he felt he could no longer devote the time required to be an effective and contributing councillor.

While the council seat will not be filled until the municipal elections on the second Monday of November, Mr. Thomlison's responsibility as chairman of the police and fire committee will be taken over by Deputy Reeve B. Johnston, who was already a member of the committee. Two other council members, C. Zieman and D. Martin were named to the committee as members.

The Fire and Police committee has been involved for some weeks now in salary negotiations with the police and is seeking a new chief to replace Carl Beattie who resigned recently.

There have been 15 applications for constable and 5 for chief. Interviews are being arranged for 5 of the applicants for constable and 3 for chief.

'Knocked all to hell by big seas and wind' race winner reports

'We got knocked all to hell out there, by the big seas and wind,' that's the way Robert Wartman of Napanee described the excitement of sailing the 90-mile first Angus Mowat Trophy Race in the winning boat, Britta IV, last weekend.

A stiff breeze whipped the sails of the winning boat, Britta IV, as they came down at the finish of the race.

Ten boats slipped across the starting line in Picton Bay at 8 o'clock Friday evening... the red-sailed Scott Hutcheson, owned by the late Angus Mowat, in the lead... to cover the course which moved through the Upper Gap to Main Duck Island, to Pigeon Island and Brothers Island and back to Picton.

The race was slow for the first three hours but 'When we got to the Upper Gap, we started to move,' Mr. Wartman said.

It was out there that the Scott Hutcheson got into trouble. Skipped by Niall Carney of Picton, and carrying a five-man crew, the boat couldn't get around the Main Ducks. Mr. Carney said it was one of the most dangerous places on the lake and he didn't want to put the boat onto the rocks. So he didn't finish the course.

The winner, the Britta IV, finished the race about one p.m. on Saturday. Owned by Mike Glaser, Kingston, it carried the crew of the Johan of Rhu, a boat belonging to Robert Wartman which had been hit and was in drydock.

'He had the boat and we had the crew,' Mr. Wartman said.

Other members of the crew were Christopher and Colin Wartman and Geoff and Richard Quirt.

Trophy and cups will be presented at a later date.

Barbara Mowat watches from the official yacht as her boat, the Scott Hutcheson moves across the starting line in Picton Bay, Friday evening

EDITORIAL

Deseronto has found, like a lot of other municipalities, that partnership on a project with the Provincial Government can be something like a marriage...you never really know how much it's going to cost you until you get into it...and you don't really know how the other partner will treat you until you've been together for a while, especially if the other partner has more money and clout than you have.

Deseronto Town Council entered into an agreement with the Provincial Ministry of the Environment several years ago, to provide water services to the town. In the years since 1974, costs of the water system escalated rapidly and Deseronto has been trying to get a straight answer as to why. The Ministry has fobbed them off and, in a recent reply, entirely changed the subject by pointing out that rates in Deseronto are comparable with rates elsewhere, which is not what council wanted to know.

The latest in the series of letters between the Ministry and the town was presented at Monday night's meeting of council. In it, Minister George R. McCague says, in part: "With reference to the information contained in your letter and in particular the possibility referred to in your fourth paragraph, I wish to state emphatically that it was never the Ministry's intention to mislead your municipality into signing the agreement for the provision of water services to the town. As you are aware from previous correspondence and discussions the increased costs have arisen primarily as a result of...and then the Minister lists original low estimate for the work, more extensive treatment than originally anticipated, increased automatic controls to reduce operating costs, higher interest rates and severe inflation in construction costs between 1974 and 1976.

Still, you notice, no explanation as to why the original estimate was low.

The Provincial Government has been quite cavalier in its treatment of the town. Town officials were the last to know when the water had been approved for drinking, and this week, they learned that the water consumption at this dry season of the year is exceeding plant design and causing a shortage...which obviously came as a surprise.

There is no doubt that a new water system was needed here. The town had been on a boil only order for over 10 years. But did it really have to cost so much?

The people of Deseronto are not the only ones paying for the escalated costs. The rest of the Ontario taxpayers are paying too, through the large piece of the tab picked up by the Provincial Government.

Deseronto Council is right to keep on trying to get an answer on the 'why' of the costs.

to group meetings and the hope of becoming members and friends.

It is a socializing group, and anyone we would like to think would help the group interesting and could be helpful to any persons doing courses or just for general knowledge purposes. And the participation of the outside people would be of great assistance in a rehabilitative way to each inmate in our group.

It's called keeping in touch with the outside world.

Please give Ten Plus a try. It costs only your time and transportation. Meetings are every Thursday night from 6.30 to 9.30. To come to a meeting, please write to Ten Plus Group, c/o J. Hammond, Social and Cultural Development Officer, P.O. Box 280, Bath, Ontario, K0H 1G0, and request a confidential application for participation in the program.

For any additional information, contact Mr. Hammond by phone at 549-2451 (local 3164), or contact members by writing to: Ron Lauzon, chairman, or Wayne Cline, secretary, P.O. Box 280, Bath.

Don't know what all is going on with the weather these days. Started off early too cold and wet, now by golly it's too hot and dry. Don't seem as if we can win at all.

It ain't just the weather that's out of wack neither. I been noticing all sorts of queer goings on. Why, we had black flies like you wouldn't believe down to our place this year. Time was when there weren't no black flies in these parts - just back north. I even asked them biology fellers down to Glenora how come they were biting and they didn't know the answer.

And another thing. I were driving down 49 the other day and I seen a dead porcupine laying by the road. Now I ain't never seen one of them things in these parts before. Why I kept dogs all my life and I never did have to pull no quills, excepting when I went hunting back north. Don't know anybody who ever saw them around either. Only thing I could figger was maybe some tourist hauled her down in his trailer, but why they'd want to do that, I don't know. I figgered for a while that all the northern critters was coming south, but seems that some of the southern ones is coming north too. I hear that turkey vultures is getting to be almost a common sight down on Long Point. Course there's lots of queer birds down that way at the best of times.

It ain't just the wild things that are acting strange though. I was talking to the folks in the Scanner office about their goats. Seems they turned out their billy the other day, and he's spent all his time ever since chasing the nannies. Now that ain't nothing strange for a billy goat, they'll chase anything that moves, and some things that don't. The funny thing was that the nannies was chasing him too - hear two of 'em is bred already. Now that is different. Goats don't start breeding till the fall, I know on account of trying to breed my Pennelopy too soon the first year I had her.

So all in all it's a right funny year. I did read in the papers that we was in for some noisy weather. At first I figgered they were talking about thunderstorms, that's the only sort of noisy weather I ever heard of. Seems to the weather men it just means unsettled. Then there's all this talk about cosmic layers and such trapping heat in and letting it out and I don't know what all. Reckon we ain't got that much control over this old world yet, and the weather's going to do just what the good Lord intends. Seems to me it ain't no use blaming nothing. One of the best cartoons I seen showed two cave men sitting in the cave looking out at the pouring rain and saying 'It's that new tangled fire that's doing it'.

Fire, atom bombs, ironizations - whatever, reckon it's the same sort of nonsense and all we can do is take her as she comes - even if the peas have given up and are shrinking instead of growing.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Madam:

I am writing you this letter in my capacity as community liaison person for the Ten Plus Group at Millhaven Maximum Security Institution.

The Ten Plus Group is a self-help group which is run by the inmates and is composed solely of inmates serving over 10 years, as well as concerned citizens from the community. These highly-motivated inmates are seeking increased public involvement in, and heightened awareness of, their group's activities.

Would it be possible as a public service for you to reprint the enclosed press release.

Yours truly,
Sharon Coates, Amherstview

Editor's note: We are pleased to publish the following press release for this group.

Some good publications that your taxes have paid for:

SHOPPING FOR FOOD AND NUTRITION by Agriculture Canada. This federal government booklet is 40 pages of very good shopping and nutrition information. The opening chapter explains how to obtain more than 50 nutrients required for good health. The remaining four chapters take the consumer through the grocery store, offering advice on selecting products for nutritive value and economy.

There is also advice on interpreting the information on labels and how long to store food for optimum quality.

One excellent volume that every farmer should own is the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's publication THE AGRICULTURAL HANDBOOK. It is actually two volumes of assembled bulletins and is available at $12 plus $3 a year for a subscription to the supplements that are constantly issued.

It is a management tool seen infrequently in farm homes; yet it is one that financial advisers have used as a basis for advice that has saved clients many thousands of dollars.

Carefully cross-indexed, it provides the latest information on a variety of subjects ranging from field crops to machinery operating costs - perhaps 400 articles each ranging from one to six pages in length. For example, one article deals with an office in the farm home. Another explains how to determine the best time to trade in obsolete farm equipment.

It includes charts that enable you to calculate the operating and capital costs of such equipment as tractors and forage harvesters. In the section on agricultural economics there is an article on how and when to hold a farm auction.

All in all, an excellent book that should be more widely used.

PETER MCLACHLAN

Scanner has new sales representative

The Quinte Scanner has a new sales representative...Peter McLachlan of River Road, Napanee.

How he got to Deseronto and this area is an interesting story. He married a Deseronto girl, Marie Dorey, but he didn't meet her here, he met her in Australia.

Peter was born in England and started his advertising career with Benn Brothers in London's Fleet Street, publishers of trade magazines. When he was 19, he went to Australia on a 'working holiday' and took a variety of odd jobs. He worked in a timber mill, as a bell hop and, at one time, as a grave digger, before deciding to take a permanent job with Peter Isaacson publications in Melbourne.

That's when he met his future wife who had also gone to Australia on a working holiday. She had been a teacher in Montreal and Toronto, primary grades, before travelling to Japan and then on to Australia.

Two years ago, the McLachlans came to Canada on a holiday and liked it. They have now come back to stay, with their two children, Jamie, 3, and Claire, 10 months.

Mrs. McLachlan's parents are Ernie and Carm Dorey who live at the corner of College and Main Streets in Deseronto.

OLD FASHIONED STEW

The Lennox and Addington Historical Society is holding its second annual Pioneer Festival at the County Museum and grounds, 97 Thomas St. East, Napanee, on Saturday, August 19.

One of the features will be a stew supper. There'll be games and amusements and exhibits of farm and home crafts. Quilting, weaving, shingle making, flailing, chair caning and cross cut sawing are just a few of the demonstrations scheduled.

NEW EDUCATION DIRECTOR

The Hastings County Board of Education has appointed a new Director of Education, Bruce Mather from Burlington, at an annual salary of $46,000.

Mr. Mather was chosen after interviews with the four candidates for the position, as selected by the Search Committee. One of the other candidates was from Belleville. The other two were from Toronto.

RENEWABLE ALTERNATIVES

We've been asked by the Solar Energy Society of Canada Inc. to let our readers know about the Society's fourth annual conference to be held at the University of Western Ontario, August 20 to 24.

The theme, Renewable Alternatives, was chosen to emphasize the fact that Canada must find energy alternatives. The technical program will include theme lectures, special lectures and panel discussions.

If you want to know more about it, write to Peter D.W. Shaw, co-chairman, 429 Piccadilly Street, London, Ontario.

CUSO CONFIRMS

A few weeks ago, we ran a story about Ron Cunningham of RR 8, Picton, who was waiting for official notification from the Nigerian Government that his appointment as a teacher of mathematics had been confirmed. The notification has now come through.

Mr. Cunningham was recruited for this position by the Kingston office of Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO). CUSO recruits volunteers to serve for two years in underdeveloped countries, with salaries paid for by the host countries.

WORKING ON FARMS

A number of area farmers are again employing summer help through the Junior Agriculturalist program. This program, subsidized by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, is designed to give city kids an opportunity to work on a farm, as well as to help commercial farmers overcome their summer labour problems.

The young people on this program, aged 16 and 17, do not have a rural background but have expressed interest in learning more about agriculture through a practical work session. The students will be employed for 9 weeks.

In the county of Lennox and Addington, five farms will be having students from the Ottawa and Belleville areas through this program. Grace Eves and Bruce Caghey of Amherst Island are host farmers for Randy Babcock of Trenton and Derek Durant of Smiths Falls respectively. Roger Boissinot, Trenton, is working on the farm of Scott Gilmore, Tamworth; Pat Duhoux, Ottawa is employed by Robert Trotter, Selby, and Barry Morris is on the farm of Earl Nolan, Napanee.

YOUR TWO CENTS WORTH

If you've got any gripes about Prince Edward County, here's your chance to air them.

The Prince Edward County Chamber of Commerce has an employee working at Glenora Ferry site, querying visitors who are waiting for the ferry to find out whether they have any complaints about their county vacation or tour.

Reports are that everyone questioned is friendly and there are few complaints.

CARDS OF THANKSTHANK YOU

We are closing for the summer. We, the officers and members of Quinte Link Rebekah Lodge No. 390, would like to thank all the people in Deseronto and surrounding district for their donations of clothing, dishes, odds and ends for a 10¢ table. Also for those people who have saved Dominion Store tapes, they have been very helpful and we would appreciate receiving any more.

And to our faithful Bingo players, who stood behind us for the past year, many thanks. Also to anyone else who sold tickets on our behalf, and anyone we have missed mentioning.

A hearty thanks to each and everyone of you.

Quinte Link Rebekah Lodge No. 390

THANK YOU

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Thomsen, Dr. Steenburg, O.R. nurses, X-ray staff, and all the nurses on surgical floor for their good care while a patient in Nanapanee hospital. Also the housekeeping staff.

Thanks to all my friends, relatives, neighbours, Metcalfe Foods employees and my clean-up crew.

Thank you one and all for your kindness.

Tom Tinney Sr.

BAHA'I FAITHQUESTION:

Do Baha'is believe in Life after Death?

ANSWER:

Yes, to consider that, after the death of the body the spirit perishes, is like imagining that a bird in a cage will be destroyed if the cage is broken. Christ said, 'In My Father's house there are many mansions.' so, also, did Baha'u'llah tell us that there are many worlds of God, when we die our bodies return to dust and ashes but our souls go on to these other worlds. Once free of this world and their earthly bodies our souls go on to the spiritual worlds, always progressing towards God. Baha'u'llah tells us that the next world is so glorious that, if we could see what it is like, we would not wish to stay on this earth, but would want to leave immediately.

Planning to fish in Bay of Quinte? ... check catch before eating

Planning any fishing in the Bay of Quinte this summer?

If you are, or if you are planning to eat any of the fish someone else catches there, better check before you eat.

Fish in many parts of the world have been affected by industrial or natural contaminants...and the Bay of Quinte is no exception. Metal mercury has been the principal trace contaminant affecting Ontario fish, but the government's continuous testing program has also detected traces of man-made compounds, such as DDT, mirex, and PCB's in some species of fish in some areas of Ontario.

Prolonged consumption of contaminated fish can lead to severe illness or, in the case of mercury contaminated fish, to methylmercury poisoning.

Mercury, whether originating naturally or from man-made sources, is readily absorbed by large predator fish such as walleye, pike and lake trout, and becomes concentrated in tissue.

PCB's, mirex and DDT accumulate in fish much the same as mercury, but tend to be found in the fatty tissues. Thus fatty fish such as whitefish, smelt and coho salmon often have high concentrations in those waters where these contaminants are present.

Some of Ontario's lakes and rivers have fish that are free from significant contamination. Others contain fish contaminated to some degree but which may be consumed on an occasional basis. Others have fish containing enough contaminants to make them unsuitable for consumption at all. The Ontario Ministry of the Environment has come up with three fairly fat booklets giving guidelines for consumption of fish from Southern Ontario, Northern Ontario and the Great Lakes.

Here is the information from the section of the Great Lakes booklet, dealing with the Bay of Quinte.

Consumption guidelines

The following guidelines reflect the maximum recommended consumption of fish according to contaminant content and duration of fishing vacation -- one-week, two-weeks, three-weeks and more than three weeks. Fishing holidays should be spaced at least six months apart if the maximum recommended for or fish has been consumed.

Applying the guidelines

1. No restrictions are placed on consumption of fish in category according to federal guidelines.
2. Women of childbearing age and children under 15 years of age should eat only fish from category.

3. Fishing holidays should be spaced at least six months apart if the maximum recommended meals for or have been consumed.

4. Anglers should not take home fish for later consumption unless it is from category.

5. A meal is considered to be approximately eight ounces (230 grams).

SANDWICHES

During hot weather, a sensible meal often consists of salad and sandwiches. Run-of-the-mill sandwiches made up of a slice of meat smeared with mustard and squashed between two slices of buttered 'Kleenex' white bread lack excitement and imagination and are not particularly good tasting either.

Since the days of the Earl of Sandwich, this menu item has progressed to variations such as the 'open-faced' sandwich. This can be a small meal piled upon a single piece of bread and eaten with a knife and fork, like the famous Danish SMORREBROD. On the sandwich can be a towering triple-decker, or a 'submarine', both of which require a fairly large assortment of ingredients.

A sandwich can be made instantly more appealing by the use of a different bread from that which you normally use. For example, use a crisp flat tortilla as a carrier upon which you heap any concoction you wish.

Or try serving an ordinary filling in a Pita pouch and yo! immediately have an out-of-the-ordinary sandwich. (Pita is the round flat Middle-East bread which can be opened into a half-moon pouch to hold any filling).

Another Pita variation is to spread a layer of Quark cheese in the pouch, insert a tidbit of marinated herring (Lunch, Bismarck, Rollmops, etc.) and garnish with a few thick slices of cucumber with the peel left on.

Pita can also be used as a fast pizza base. Spread the tomato sauce directly on top of the pita, then proceed with the 'fixins' of your choice. Leave in the oven only long enough to melt the cheese.

The following Danish sandwiches are meant to be eaten with knife and fork. They are designed to be an eye-pleasing combination of shapes, colours and textures. Be daring and try them - your family will be pleasantly surprised.

ONE Spread rye bread with butter, then with soft Camembert cheese. Over the Camembert arrange slices of raw mushrooms, and well-drained capers. Sprinkle with caraway seeds. Serve accompanied by cherry tomatoes.

TWO Spread soft Camembert on thin slices of dark pumpernickel bread, and top with thinly sliced Bermuda or Spanish onion. This combination is excellent either as an open-faced or as a regular sandwich served with Moussy beer, the non-alcoholic malt beverage.

THREE For each serving thickly butter * one slice of white bread. Cover it to the edges with two overlapping slices of Samso or Tybo cheese. Over the cheese arrange thin slices of cucumber twisted into dancing shapes so that they will stand upright. Place dots of mayonnaise (to which fresh minced dill has been added) on either side of the cucumber curls.

FOUR For each serving, thickly butter * a slice of white bread. Lay on the bread a thin slice of Black Forest ham, curling the meat under at one side so that it does not lie flat on the bread. Under the curled-up meat place a curl of head lettuce or a sprig of watercress. Place a slice of Danish Brie on the ham (the Danish Brie comes in a can, is firmer than the French Brie and can be sliced more easily); cut cheese slice partway through so that it can be fanned out. Place a radish rose at the centre of the Brie fan. Garnish with a dab of mustard blended with sour cream or Quark.

* It is necessary to thickly butter the bread to prevent it from either drying out or else becoming sodden by the moisture of the foods laid upon it.

Ontario Municipal Board

R 773670

IN THE MATTER OF Section 35, of The Planning Act (R.S.O. 1970, c. 349),

and

IN THE MATTER OF an application by The Corporation of the Township of Sophiasburgh for approval of its Restricted Area By-law 1056

Appointment For Hearing

THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD hereby appoints Thursday, the 27th day of July, 1978 at the hour of ten o'clock (local time) in the forenoon at the Township Hall, Hamlet of Demorestville, for the hearing of all parties interested in supporting or opposing this application.

If you do not attend and are not represented at this hearing, the Board may proceed in your absence and you will not be entitled to any further notice of the proceedings.

In the event the decision is reserved, persons taking part in the hearing may request a copy of the decision from the presiding Board Member. Such decision will be mailed to you when available.

DATED at Toronto this 26th day of April, 1978.

SECRETARY

Township of Sophiasburgh

By-Law No. 1056

Explanatory Note

By-Law No. 1056 is a new restricted area (Zoning) By-Law. It applies to all lands included within the boundaries of the Township of Sophiasburgh.

This Zoning By-Law implements the Official Plan of the County of Prince Edward and is designed to regulate the use of all land and buildings within the defined areas which are set out in the Zone Maps incorporated in the By-Law.

This By-Law authorizes the uses which are set forth in it and prohibits any use of land or construction or use of buildings not specifically authorized.

Land or buildings not specifically authorized at the time of passing of By-Law No. 1056 (June 7, 1977) and which were used in a manner contrary to the provisions of this By-Law may, subject to certain qualifications set out in it, continue to be so used.

By-Law No. 1056 requires the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board. The foregoing Hearing has now been arranged by the Ontario Municipal Board at the request of the Township as a preliminary to the Board's granting its approval, or otherwise, of this By-Law.

Deseronto Recreation News

By JACK LAYFIELD

FITNESS TESTING PROGRAM The Deseronto Recreation Department has been fortunate enough to book the 'Wintario Fitness Testing Van' for Wednesday, September 6, at the Deseronto Arena.

The project is designed to promote physical fitness by means of group presentations, and individual fitness evaluation and consultation. Experienced fitness consultants are available to evaluate an individual's cardiovascular efficiency, pulmonary function, muscular strength and endurance, percent body fat, flexibility, etc.

In addition to receiving the results of the test, each person tested will receive a fitness program tailored to his or her needs. The personal program is designed to help increase a person's level of fitness.

The regular cost is $60. However, Wintario picks up most of the tab. Your fee is $12 for the test.

This is an excellent opportunity to have a scientific evaluation of your fitness level. Whether you play sports...do manual labour...or sit behind a desk...you should know how old your body is.

We can only take a maximum of 40 persons on the one day, so call the Recreation Office now at 396-3432 and arrange to register. First come, first served.

DAY CAMP PROGRAM This program for elementary school age children got underway on July 4, and operates three days per week for six consecutive weeks. Approximately 70 children are participating in the project.

The program is held at the Deseronto

Public School and features crafts, sports, hikes, dance sessions and instruction, field trips, etc. The project is funded jointly by the Ministry of Culture and Recreation and the Deseronto Recreation Department.

SWIMMING INSTRUCTION All parents who would still like to register their children in this program to be held August 14-September 1 at the Napanee Rotary Pool, should contact the Napanee Recreation Office or drop in to their office to register as soon as possible.

Deseronto Council Briefs

 At Monday night's meeting of the Deseronto Council, approval was given to raise the honoraria for Public Utility Commission chairman and commissioners from $250 to $350 for the chairman and from $200 to $300 for the two commissioners. This is the first raise since 1970.

 Council finally got official notification...and a cheque for $40,000...from the Ministry of Housing. This is for Ontario Home Renewal Program. Council had asked for $60,000 but has been informed that the $40,000 advance may represent the total funds available for Deseronto, and that commitments made to homeowners must not exceed the amount of the cheque until such time as the town requests, and receives, further accountable advances. The $40,000 would cover about 8 applications for loans and Deseronto has 33 outstanding from last year.

 A letter from Harry Taras, offering to pay a token sum for a small L-shaped piece of property which is owned by the town and borders his property, was turned over to the property committee.

 The Police Department's report for June showed, as usual, a lot of overtime...149 1/2 hours.

 During the first six months of this year, Deseronto's animal control officer Bud Meeks, spent 182 hours on town patrol covering 865 miles. He picked up 42 dogs and took 35 to the pound, driving 495 miles to do so. He also picked up 6 cats and one skunk.

LIBRARY NOTES

The library would like to welcome Kathie Lawlor as a staff member. Kathie is taking over the position of assistant librarian. Also with us this summer is Gail Herman who has generously agreed to work as a library volunteer.

All of us have odd little coincidences or dreams that happen from time to time. A new book which examines some of the mor bizarre types of these phenomena is Gould's 'Oddities: A Book of Unexplained Facts'. For leisure reading there is DeLamar's 'The Laughing Stranger'.

Tourists remember that you are welcome at the library. Take out a summer membership so that rainy vacation days are not so grim.

Hard work with a hoe

To control weeds in the flower garden takes hard work and a hoe.

While there are many good herbicides or weed killers available, many can be rather dangerous in the home garden unless used very carefully, says Burke McNeill, extension horticulturist for the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture.

It is difficult to recommend herbicides because of the wide variety of ornamental flowers grown in the same flower bed, and because many weeds are closely related to popular ornamentals.

Weeds kept continuously under control with a hoe will prevent seeding and give you weed-free area. The old saying, 'one year's seeding, seven year's weeding' is still valid.

Horticultural experts recommend using mulch, such as plastic mulch, peat moss, stone chips or wood chips to help smother out weeds.

Mulches, while helping to eliminate weeds, also can add to the attractiveness of the flower bed.

If there are large solid areas of a single type of ornamental, there are herbicides available to reduce your labour in the garden. Check the label carefully before applying a herbicide to determine the effect on neighbouring plants and grass.

But because of the many drawbacks associated with chemical weed control, Mr. McNeill recommends the hoe.

'It may give you blisters and a sore back, but the hoe, used properly, gives excellent weed control.'

Mrs. Bertha Boston has returned home after spending a week in Orillia with her granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kemp. While there, Mrs. Boston had a chat on the phone with Mrs. J. Stone, wife of a former minister of the Church of the Redeemer.

The Quinte Old-timers Club and friends had a very enjoyable bus and boat trip on Monday, July 10. They left by bus to Young's Point, near Lakefield, where they boarded a boat for the Kawartha Lakes.

The weather was fine and the scenery lovely. They had lunch at Beechwood Lodge of Deer Bay. On the way home, they stopped for dinner at the Sun Luck Gardens in Belleville.

Mrs. Merton Cumming, Mill Street, spent Sunday, June 9, at the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Myrtle Lloyd. The service was held in the Latter Day Saints Church. Rev. Alfred Northey was the Minister. She was buried in North Brook Cemetery.

Dinner was served by Ladies of the church at Northbrook Community Centre, after which Mrs. Cummings went to Mountain Grove and visited her cousins, Mrs. Edna Good, Rev. Cox and family and had lunch with them.

The many friends of Reta Baldwin of Northport will be pleased to hear that she recovering nicely in the Kingston General Hospital.

On July 1st weekend Lorrie Miller, Tyendinaga Reserve, attended a Baha' Native Council in Caughnawaga, near Montreal. Representatives of Six Nations Reserve were also present. Dennis and Linda Starks of Nova Scotia, who were observers at the Council, returned with Mrs. Miller to Tyendinaga where they showed slides of the Ray Fudgeon Museum, U.S.A. The Starks were en route to Buffalo for holidays.

READ ANY GOOD LABELS LATELY?

A basic guide to the Who, What, Where, When and Why of Shopping Canadian.

Why should you Shop Canadian?

Every time you buy something made in Canada, you help keep a Canadian working. You help keep Canadian money inside Canada. You help to expand and strengthen Canada's economy.

When you think about it, you help yourself.

When should you Shop Canadian?

Whenever you're satisfied that the product or service you need is

(A) made or grown in Canada and
(B) of equal or better value and quality.
That's not just good advice... it's good sense.

MADE IN CANADA
FABRIQUÉ AU CANADA

What is made in Canada?

Just about everything you need to help you live the life you want.

As the saying goes, we have no bananas, but we do have Apples, Bundages, Cranes, Drills, Elevators, Furniture, Glassware, Holiday resorts, Insulation, Jewellery, Kitchen appliances, Lumber, Machinery, Newspapers, Office equipment, Potatoes, Quilts, Rope, Steel Tires, Umbrellas, Vaccines, Wines, X-Ray equipment, Yarns, and Zippers.

Everything, in other words, from A to Z.

Who should Shop Canadian?

Every day, most of us have the choice. Whether we're buying groceries for the home or supplies for business, farm or industry.

If each of us added only $10 a week to Canadian made purchases, Canada would be over 10 billion dollars better off in just one year.

Who should Shop Canadian? You should.

Where does it say Made in Canada?

Sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes a sign says "Product of P.E.I." or "B.C. Apples" or "Fabrique au Quebec" or "Made in Manitoba" or "New Brunswick Sandines" or "Grown by Saskatchewan Farmers" or "A Product of Alberta" or "Fresh from Newfoundland" or "Manufactured in Ontario" or "Nova Scotia Lobster".

The point is, if you take the trouble to find out, you can usually tell.

And, if it's made anywhere in the ten Provinces or the Territories, it's made in Canada.

This ad was made in Canada. Making this ad employed for a period of time a writer, an art director, an account executive, a media buyer, a media planner, a typesetter, an engraver, a platemaker, a traffic operator, several switchboard operators, various mailmen, shippers and secretaries, publication reps, publication make-up people, not to mention all their various suppliers.

Everyone of these people lives and works in Canada.

Helen and Kim Coghlin of Bloomfield and Janet Weese of RR 1, Bloomfield, stood by at the Deseronto boat races in case of accident

Ambulance corps volunteers on hand to help in case of accidents

If you saw a man thrown off a horse and into the windshield of a nearby car, would you know what to do to help him?

Janet Weese, of RR 1, Bloomfield, did know how to help because she had taken the St. John Ambulance Course.

She's been a member of the 137 Combined Division of St. John which covers all of Prince Edward County for the past three years.

The incident with the horse rider and the windshield took place at the first event she covered as a member of the division corps.

'I took the course because I thought I might need it,' she said. 'But when that accident happened at the horse show, I thought I'd be bothered...he had gashed his arm as well as hurt his head. But I wasn't bothered by it. It's surprising how you can cope.'

Janet was one of the members of the corps attending the North American Boat Championship Races in Deseronto, July 2nd.

Also at the races were Kim and Helen Coghlin, Bloomfield, who have been in this work for a year. Emmie Wilnot of West Lake, the superintendent in charge, and a five-year member; and Mable Lloyd, West Lake.

The 137 combined division has 20 members who take time from their own busy schedules to attend special events where their services might be needed.

After a full day in the hot sun at the Deseronto races, both Janet Weese and Helen Coghlin would be putting in a full working shift at a drive-in theatre. Mr. Coghlin works at Mountain View.

At the Deseronto boat races, fortunately, there were only two small accidents but, at last year's Gold Cup Races, accidents resulted in one death and two hospitalized for injuries.

Other events where the services of the County division were made available were such places as the skidoo races at Milford, cross country skiing, arena events and fairs.

They meet the second and fourth Mondays of every month at the Picton Legion Hall, where Branch 78 has donated a room for their use. The next meeting is September 11, at 7:30.

For new members, there is a 6-month training course, and later, a home nursing course. Members are re-examined every year.

Anyone who is interested in taking a first aid training course, even if they can't participate as a voluntary worker, should contact St. John Ambulance, Box 1060, Picton.

How to be a cool customer this summer.

Be as cool as a cucumber

Fruits and salads are cool and refreshing. And when you stay away from the oven to prepare meals, you also stay cooler and save electricity.

Keep it light and breezy. It's cool to wear lighter clothes with lighter colours. It's also cool if your clothes dryer is vented outdoors. Heat and moisture won't be released in your home. Better still, hang your clothes outside to dry.

Use your air conditioner wisely. Make sure it fits tightly in the window. Keep your doors and windows closed. Clean the filters regularly. If you leave your house for part of the day, cut back the air conditioning. Going on vacation? Turn it off completely.

Drink up. Ah, there's nothing like a tall, cool, refreshing drink to make things cooler. But remember when the refrigerator door is left open, valuable energy escapes.

Who cares what gets dumped in the Bay?? A lot of people do

Does it really matter whether a few farmers let their cattle defecate into the Bay of Quinte? The Scanner raised quite a few hackles last summer by suggesting that it did matter — that any type of pollution going into the waterways added to the total picture of the pollution which was choking our lakes and rivers.

And we aren't alone in our opinion, as the past week's reports in daily newspapers, on radio and TV concerning Great Lakes' pollution, prove. There are a lot of important people actively engaged in trying to find out just what is polluting the waterways and how to prevent it.

CORTS (Canada-Ontario-Rideau-Trent-Severn) Advisory Committee, the International Joint Commission (Canada and the United States) and the Federal Department of Fisheries and Environment are three of the groups which have been in the news recently concerning their water clean-up activities.

On an inside page of this issue, you will see a letter to the editor from John Carrington, with the Ministry of Natural Resources in Kempenfelt, requesting that we bring to the attention of our readers what it may mean to property owners, developers and municipal governments, if recommendations from CORTS are brought into effect.

Federal, Provincial governments co-operating with Ojibway band in educational experiment on isolated northern Ontario reserve

An interesting educational experiment is being carried out at an isolated Indian Reservation — Lac La Croix — in northern Ontario. It's a first in Ontario, and probably in all North America.

With funding from the Federal Department of Indian Affairs, and control of the spending under the Fort Francis — Rainy River Board of Education, Indian youngsters are being given the opportunity to study up to grade 12, academic, on their own reservation, without having to live 'outside'.

Meanwhile, the principal of the elementary and secondary schools on the reserve, Muriel Marsh, is working closely with a committee of the Ojibway Band on the Reserve, helping them to 'learn the ropes' so they can, in the long run, take over as their own board of education and negotiate directly with the Department of Indian Affairs, a function now looked after by the Fort Francis — Rainy River board.

'It's the most challenging job I've ever had,' said Ms. Marsh, who just returned north after a holiday in Sophiasburgh. 'It's full of frustrations, and some successes.'

The secondary school was set up in November of 1975. Previous to that, younger children were taught on the reserve under a completely federal operation. Courses were not accredited with the Ontario Department of Education. Older students had to go out to Fort Francis to get a secondary school education. A student who showed willingness to go, was flown out and had to stay away from home for a complete school term. September to Christmas is a long time and it was not always a happy situation for the children.

Now the courses in both the elementary and secondary schools are those accredited by the Ontario education standards. Courses are taught in English, although this is a second language for the Ojibway children.

This is the second year the high school has graduated its own students, two last year and two this. One of the objectives is for the graduates to 'go outside' for teacher training and come back to teach.

'It's a paradoxical situation,' said Ms. Marsh. 'If it is successful, and it appears to be, any teacher coming into the reserve will be helping to destroy native culture. In essence, the system is two-pronged. The students will be getting a good education, but culture will be destroyed.'

'The band knows this, about the erosion of culture, but they feel that, at that point where culture is being eroded, they will be ready to take over and reverse the trend. Perhaps teaching will be conducted in Ojibway in the morning and English in the afternoon.'

'Right now they consider the system the only alternative to the horror of flying kids out and away from their families.'

The band recognizes that running a school system is very complex and they are very generous with money, arranging student trips and other events.

The school has no records in the regular sense. In fact it doesn't exist, in a way. The Federal Government owns the buildings, but has no teachers or students. The Fort Francis — Rainy River board has students and teachers, but owns none of the buildings.

The elementary school is a modern building, but the secondary school is carried on in three log buildings, while a new school is being built by the band.

There are 79 students in the elementary school and 18 in high school. Enrollment there, as elsewhere in the Province, is dropping but it isn't a serious problem yet.

The high school course is a four-year academic course, which is what the Band had requested. There are six compulsory courses a year and options are offered as personnel is available.

Getting teachers isn't easy. Pay is the same as that paid to other teachers under the same board of education and there is about $800 extra a year for isolation allowance.

Housing is good. There is one three-bedroom house, four motel-type apartments and two brand new one bedroom houses. The aim is to provide one house per teacher, but this will take

OMB hearing will give protesters another chance to present views on re-zoning in Sophiasburgh

Would you want a sawmill — or a concrete manufacturing plant moving into your neighbourhood?

There are a lot of people along Northport road in Sophiasburgh who don't want one and are trying, once again, to get the zoning of the old Edgewater Canning Factory changed from M2 to M1.

These same people were pretty upset back last fall when they realized that an M2 zoning was going to allow a truck terminal to locate there. But they were too late with their objections. The land had been zoned, pending approval by the Ontario Municipal Board, and the property had been sold to a company that, hopefully, from Township Council's point of view, would provide jobs for county people.

Well, it didn't work that way. The company closed down, a few months after it started operations.

Now the property is up for sale again and the Township is at the stage in its Restricted Area by-law of having a hearing by the Ontario Municipal Board on July 27 at 10 in the morning, in Demoreville, to hear all parties interested in supporting or opposing the application of the Township for approval of the by-law.

Bob Williams, one of those opposed (at least on the one issue of the use of the old canning factory site), intends to be present at the hearing. And he intends to present, once again, the brief he circulated and presented to council last September, concerning the zoning of the aforementioned site.

About 40 people signed the September petition, in which it was pointed out that they were not trying to stop industry from coming into the township, but that they were concerned because the by-law made no active attempt to provide an industrial park away from residential areas where industry could be accommodated.

They also felt a truck terminal at that site would be a traffic hazard.

This spring, when the property went up for sale again, Mr. Williams wrote to the Highway Transport Board of Ontario about the traffic hazard problem posed by the trucks coming from the truck terminal and using the Northport road. A representative from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications office in Kingston came to look things over and Mr. Williams received a letter from C.R. Wilmot, executive director of Regional Operations in Toronto,

GERTIE COOPER

They raise 'em tough in Prince Edward

Prince Edward County sure grows some mighty hardy people, who live to a ripe old age, retaining their sense of humour and their indomitable courage in the face of physical problems.

One of these is Mrs. Gertie Cooper of Picton's King Street.

At 90 years old, she is still looking after her own home and caring for an invalid son...and she does it all from a wheelchair.

Mrs. Cooper learned many years ago that life's activities don't have to be too confined even if a person is confined to a wheelchair.

When she was a little girl and her mother died, she was adopted by the Berths of Wellington. Her adopted mother, Lanor, had been paralyzed at the age of three but had managed to teach school which she reached every day on horseback.

EDITORIAL

The recent tragedy in which young students drowned while on a canoeing trip, points up, once again, the hazards involved in lack of training and knowledge when heading out into the wilds.

During the summer, thousands of Ontario families start off on camping trips, many of them quite unprepared for the situations they will be encountering.

One hazard they may be carrying with them, is the family's substitute housing - a tent; and they may not be aware that a non-flame-retarded cotton tent can burn to the ground in as little as 45 seconds. In fact, any cotton tent that hasn't been treated with flame retardants will ignite easily and burn rapidly when exposed to an open flame or other ignition source. Nylon tents burn less rapidly.

Even after they are treated with flame retardants at the factory, cotton and nylon tents are not fireproof - the process only makes them more resistant to ignition and ensures they will not burn as readily.

If you are planning to take your family on a tenting holiday, here are some safety hints from the Federal Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs:

— Do not use candles or matches or open flames of any kind in or near a tent.

— Discourage smoking in tents.

— Build campfires downwind and several yards away from the tent. Always be sure to fully extinguish camp fires before leaving camp or before retiring for the night.

— Practise extreme caution when using fuel-powered lanterns and heaters inside tents, and use battery operated equipment wherever possible.

— Extinguish or turn off all lanterns before going to bed.

— Never use cook stoves inside the tent.

— Keep all flammable liquids such as gasoline or kerosene in tightly-capped safety cans, stored out of the reach of children and well away from the tent.

— Bring along a portable fire extinguisher when camping.

— Develop an escape plan for getting out of the tent quickly in case of emergency. Keep a knife handy to cut an escape hole in the tent should the exit become blocked.

Follow these measures and have a safe and happy holiday.

Social order of honeybees depends on scent

Honey bees live in a complex and highly organized world. Scientists studying bees now believe that a social structure is possible because of a 'concert of odors' produced by bees.

Dr. Ralph Boch, a bee specialist with Agriculture Canada in Ottawa, is investigating how bees communicate through odor and how this knowledge can aid Canada's honey industry.

'Bees talk to each other by a dance language and by transmitting odors,' says Dr. Boch.

'They produce odor messages, pheromones, each causing a specific response. It is these pheromones, particularly those from the queen, that control the many activities in the hive.'

The Ottawa Research Station scientist has been studying the role of these odors in the swarming of honey bee colonies. When a hive becomes overcrowded, a swarm of bees, accompanied by a queen, will break away from the old hive and form a new colony in another location.

In order to save the beekeeper from losing some of his bees, Dr. Boch is looking for ways to control swarming.

'We have found that the average queen can control about 50,000 bees in one colony. Overcrowding the hive makes the bees restive and they swarm.

We are able to extract the pheromones of the queen and are experimenting with placing these extracts and also synthetic substances into the hive. In this way swarming can be prevented and more honey may be produced,' Dr. Boch says.

The scientist has also found that swarming bees deprived of a queen do not travel far from the old hive. They will only migrate to a new location when their queen is present.

There is also work being done on the effect pheromones have in helping the swarming bees choose a future nesting site.

'When the bees are ready to swarm, scout bees go out and choose a site for a new nest. They leave an odor there as a message for other bees to tell them this is the spot.

If we can reproduce that odor and put it on an empty hive still on the beekeeper's land, we can redirect the swarm to this spot. In this way, the beekeeper will not lose the bees,' Dr. Boch says.

Well, by cracky, it looks like I got the Scanner people into the fire again. Elma always did say that me and my big mouth would come to a sticky end.

Donny King, the mayor of Picton, write straight to the president himself. Said that he was for Free Press and all but didn't think much of my being a eavesdropper. It was a right polite politik like letter but Donny's like that. Reckon he comes by it honest, his dad Alf was a right polite fellah too. When he had the grocery store on Main Street he looked after his customers real well and had a good business. Always friendly he was, and ready to help out. Played in the band too. So did young Donny as I recall, got good enough to go play in the Mounty Band. Maybe that's where he got to hear about this eavesdropping stuff.

Now, I got to tell you folks right out that I ain't no reporter but can't say as I eavesdrop. I just talk and listen and then tell it the way it's being said. Now that ain't to say it's the way it is, but I figger the politicians and such important folk had better know how people is thinking things is. Then if it ain't so they can get out there and tell about it right.

Same as this withing the Scanner. I'm sure sorry if n I caused trouble, but there's no two ways about it, that's the way she was being told, and now I reckon it's all put straight, even if n I did get into hot water over it.

T'aint the first time I got the paper in trouble, so I don't suppose it'll be the last. Tact never were my strong point, and like Elma said, I allus did have a big mouth.

That little shower we had last week sure didn't get into the ground. She's baked like concrete down our way, so all the water run off. Pumped some water from the old dug well fer Elma's garden, but if'n you ain't got no irrigation water you sure got trouble this year. Some farmers is already dicing down their peas that didn't come to nothing on account of the drought. Still, that's the way it is round here, can't count on good hot weather before May 24th and can't count on rain hardly at all.

Makes fer good tourist weather, so long as some damn fool don't throw a butt out the car window and start a grass fire. Why it'd run from one end of the county to the other.

Well, here's to dust in your eye!

IT'S AN OLD CRAFT

Handcrafted coloured glass sets the mood

One of the best things about writing for a living is that you find out so much interesting information when you start checking into a story.

Stained...or coloured...glass is a case in point.

This writer didn't know much more about it, a few days ago, than that it was something coloured you saw in church windows or old Tiffany lamps.

Then we saw the new window which graces the Mohawk Inn dining room, just opened on Highway 49, at Highway 2.

This beautiful window features the head of a Mohawk Indian, surrounded by animals, representative of Indian bands.

The window was made by Sandpiper Studios, Belleville, which is operated by Randy Wardell and his wife, Judy.

Mr. Wardell was most co-operative in providing us with historical and modern information about colour in glass.

Back in the 900's, they had glass which was coloured when it was produced.

In the late 1700's and the early 1800's, the French came up with the idea of painting on uncoloured glass...stained glass.

Later, people went back to using coloured glass, with black paint shading out the un-coloured sections of the picture.

The name Tiffany is familiar to almost everyone today. Lewis Tiffany worked with coloured glass, cutting each little piece to fit into the finished whole. This is the process the Wardells use.

It took them five days to make the window after their design had been approved by Cliff Maracle, owner of the Mohawk Inn.

The small pieces of glass were put together by two different methods. The Mohawk head and the animals were joined by wrapping the edges of the glass in copper foil and soldering them together. The rest were joined by traditional lead came strips, with slots for the pieces of glass to fit into.

The Wardells get much of their coloured glass from a Canadian firm in Calgary now. This company has a German glass master working for them. They did get glass from Europe but transporting the fragile material is a problem.

They repair church windows, lamps and other items, and also produce customized things.

The window at the Mohawk Inn is just one example of the customized decor and individual planning that has gone into the Inn. The motif is carried out in the Tiffany type lamps and other dining room features.

The Inn building also houses a beauty parlour, barber shop, banquet hall and a disco for the younger set.

Mr. Maracle is also planning to build a 16-unit motel beside the Inn and a 16 by 32 foot pool.

The Inn has already supplied employment for 12 people, most of them local. Two master chefs handle the kitchen and Jim Mayo, who manages the building, is himself a master chef.

VIEWING RESTORATION

any Wednesday in July and August, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the public can drop in and see the restorations going on at Macaulay House, the old Anglican church rectory, purchased by Prince Edward County Council in 1974.

None of the rooms has been completed yet, but it is interesting to see what is being done.

20 ONTARIO SCHOLARS

To qualify as an Ontario Scholar, a student must have a minimum of 480 marks in his or her best subjects taken during Grade 13. Twenty students at Napanee District Secondary School qualified this year... the same number as a year ago.

Rodney Ignatius, a student from Sri Lanka had a total of 550 marks. A close second was Anne Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy of First Avenue with 549.

ALL SIGNS LEAD WHERE ???

If you've been driving around Prince Edward County you will have noticed that sign posters have been busy. Nearly every little side road now has its own direction post.

But it seems as if no one thought about how to get to Pictou. The Chamber of Commerce for Prince Edward County introduced a motion to request County council to erect additional signs at intersections to point the way to town.

KEEPING COURSES

The Lennox and Addington County Board of Education has reversed a previous decision and is going to keep home economics and industrial arts programs in the county's public schools.

Removal of the courses had been called a 'backward step' by one trustee and a delegation of some 40 parents and a petition with more than 650 names were part of the ammunition which helped keep the courses in.

LOCAL AUTHOR

A history of Canadian sailing, written by W.M.M. McPherson of Pictou, is included in a 'Complete Book of Sailing' published by Doubleday and available in six countries.

Mr. McPherson is a past executive director of the Canadian Yachting Association.

MORE TRAFFIC TIE-UPS

The CORTS advisory committee has supported recommendations that the Bay Bridge between Belleville and Prince Edward County be opened every half-hour instead of hourly. The recommendation has been sent to the Provincial Ministry of Transportation and Communications which operates the bridge.

Whatever happened to the one... or wasn't it, two, bridges a local elected member was promising us.

BUT WILL THERE BE ANY FRUIT?

The Farm Products Marketing Board has announced that 82% of the growers who voted in a recent expression of opinion poll favoured amalgamating the Ontario Fresh Fruit Growers' Marketing Board with the Ontario Tender Fruit Growers' Marketing Board to create the Ontario Tender Fruit Producers' Marketing Board. Two hundred and forty-eight growers responded.

The Board is reviewing the results and will be making a recommendation to the Minister.

If we don't get some rain soon, there won't be any fruits to amalgamate.

SYMPATHY WON'T PAY THE BILLS

They had the Minister's sympathy, Lennox and Addington County Roads Chairman and Ernestown Reeve Cecil Kill reported, following the latest round of talks between his group and the Ministry of Transportation and Communications regarding funding of an alternate route to Highway 33. There was no commitment but the group got a fair hearing.

The alternate highway would run north of Highway 33 which has had a very high number of accidents... well above provincial average... on certain sections.

The local group wants the Ministry to pay the full cost of land acquisition and road construction. Cost is estimated at $8.5 million.

MUSEUM RETIREMENT

lennox and Addington County Museum Director Helen Hutchison has retired after many years involvement with the historical society.

She came to Napanee in the 1950's and was president of the County Historical Society from 1968-74.

GOOD TRACK RECORD

A community involvement process is bringing the all-weather running track at Wellington's CML Snider public school closer to completion. Half of the $60,000 needed will come from a Wintario grant, the other half is being raised locally by jog-a-thons, bake sales and suppers, carnivals and similar events.

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet and this plant, with the unattractive name of Snake Plant, or Mother-in-Law's Tongue does produce a flower with a beautiful fragrance. The flower is white, with a pale lime green through it. But it doesn't flower often, this one, belonging to Margaret Harvey, Main Street, Deseronto, has just bloomed for the first time in 10 years. The flower comes out at about 7:30 or 8 at night.

CARDS OF THANKSTHANK YOU

We would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to our relatives and friends who joined with us in the celebration of our fortieth wedding anniversary.

We greatly enjoyed the lovely dinner provided by the Ladies Auxiliary of Deseronto Legion and the dance following. Thanks to all for the generous gifts, cards and best wishes received.

Thanks to Flen McGarvey of Napanee for the memorable ride in the 1929 Model A Ford.

A special thank you to our daughters and their husbands and our grandson Mike and his wife for arranging and sponsoring this happy occasion.

Don and Lillian Pringle

THANK YOU

I would, at this time, like to express my sincere thanks to the firemen for the job they did, and the gentleman who took my son's motorcycle away from the house, and anyone who had anything to do with it. Special thanks to Sheller Globe for their generous donation, also to the Rebekah Lodge No. 390 for their donation, and to some of the senior citizens who gave donations. Thanks also to my son-in-law and daughter, Joan, for all they have done for me. Thank you to ex-Chief Carl Beattie for offering his house while they were on holiday.

Thank you one and all, and forgive me for anyone I have left out.

Mrs. Beatrice Woodcock & son Donald.

BAHA'I FAITHQUESTION:

Do Baha'i have Holy Days like other religions?

ANSWER:

Yes. There are nine Holy Days in the year when Baha'i commemorate special events in Baha'i history. On these days, whenever possible, Baha'i's do not work.

How typical of our country that when the new 600 seat Prince of Wales Theatre opened on July 1 at Upper Canada Village, it was ignored by the CBC, but the U.S. Public Broadcasting Service sent a crew to tape the entire show which was then broadcast twice for American viewers.

The first offering by the Prince of Wales Theatre was A Day to Remember, a new musical comedy by Ottawa author George Blackburn. Its theme is a sad one, the flooding of seven small and very old towns on the St. Lawrence River to accommodate the building of the St. Lawrence Seaway in the 1950's.

Producer Blackburn, who wrote the book, lyrics and music, tells of the sorrow of those who had to leave their homes where their ancestors had lived for a hundred years and of the struggles of the early settlers to build their place to stand.

Blackburn too had a long struggle to get the theatre built and to get his musical (which had been rejected by the CBC) produced. Last year he finally managed to get the Ontario Government interested and with the aid of Wintario Funds and private donations the theatre was built, but not without its problems. 100 costumes were made in a local schoolhouse by women of the nearby villages. The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority backed off on its offer to provide land for the theatre at the entrance to Upper Canada Village and there were no signs or posters to indicate where the theatre was located. They were found later under the counters of the Parks Commission outlets.

Let's hope that, like the Stratford and Shaw Festivals, it will survive and thrive.

The University of Guelph has announced that they are now providing a badly needed public service, a new diagnostic service for homeowners, horticulturists and farmers.

Homeowners, as well as the agricultural industry can now get answers to their questions and problems from the clinic at the university.

The clinic will deal with questions relating to the identification and control of pests, the identification of plants and the many problems encountered by horticulturists, and homeowners in growing plants.

Enquiries and specimens for diagnosis should be sent to:

Wheel chair hasn't slowed her down

'I used to wheel her to the Quaker Church in Wellington, where the museum is now,' Mrs. Cooper recalls. 'They had a ramp at the back where I could take her up.'

Mrs. Cooper was paralyzed by a stroke 13 years ago, which affected her whole left side. She can use her left hand for holding things but that's about all.

'If I want to wring something out, I hold it with my left hand and wring with the right one,' she said.

And she is able to hold cotton materials, which she has sewn together into strips, with her left hand while she works a crochet hook with the other.

'I used to braid rugs,' she said, 'but after my stroke I couldn't so I learned how to crochet them. I've made over 400'.

She has a special crochet hook, made of hardwood, about 5 inches long which a friend gave her.

Her whole house was shiny clean and she said she does it herself. She can handle mops and the vacuum from the wheelchair.

Some clothes were hanging on coat hangers on the outside line. 'How did you get them out there?' she was asked. 'I shove them out through the door,' she replied with a laugh.

Her husband, George Nelson Cooper, died about ten years ago, and two of her six children are dead also. But she had plenty of family around to help her celebrate her 90th birthday last December.

'My great granddaughter made the cake and I blew out the 90 candles in two breaths...all except one.'

She has 40 some great grandchildren and 16 grandchildren and had no trouble identifying each one in her photograph albums.

She and her husband were married in the Methodist parsonage in Wellington and had the reception at the home of the groom's parents in Bloomfield. Their first home was a log house at Gilead. Her husband was a carpenter in Picton after he gave up farming.

She still likes to use her wood stove for cooking in the winter. 'I used to make pies on that stove when we moved to Picton,' she said. On Tuesdays, I'd make 30 pies and on Saturdays 75 pies and deliver them to a store downtown. I remember I'd walk up behind the Royal Hotel with a load of pies.' And she used to keep boarders too.

'The morning I had my stroke, I had 15 pie shells ready for pumpkin fillings.'

She still makes some pastry for their own use. 'I'm not supposed to eat pastry,' she said, 'but I do once in a while.'

Would she ever bake pies for sale again? 'If I started that, I wouldn't get any rest,' she said.

Something she really enjoys is watching hockey on television. 'I wouldn't miss it for anything,' she said.

Before she had her stroke, she had a heart attack, which didn't slow her down too much and she also has arthritis. But you'd never guess that she was 90 and had so many physical problems when you see her warm, cheerful smile. She's as bright as a cricket and remembers everything, not only from years back, but from day to day, and that's something that seems to be difficult for many older people.

What's her philosophy for happy living?

'There could always be something worse,' she said. 'There's no use anybody saying they can't do anything, they can.' And she has proved it.

Letters to the Editor

CORTS PROPOSALS EXPLAINED

I am writing to be sure you realize that a set of restrictions on property owners and developers, added responsibilities and requirements for municipal governments, and other regulations and programs have been proposed for the Rideau Canal, Trent-Severn Canal Systems.

These restrictions and government projects have come out of three years of public meetings held by a committee of public citizens living in the canal systems areas who advise a Canada-Ontario Agreement Board, but they may not have the backing of the rest of the people living in those canal corridors.

To find out whether people do want these programs and regulations, another series of meetings has been scheduled, two of which have been held: one in Trenton and the second in Port Severn. Attendance has been disappointingly low, which means people in the corridors want these restrictions on their property or they are not aware of the impact of the proposals outlined in the CORTS (Canada-Ontario, Rideau, Trent-Severn) Green Paper listing 24 proposals to develop the systems as a major tourist and recreational attraction.

Not everybody can understand how paragraphs like these affect them personally.

Residential Shoreline Development

No. 12. That plans of subdivision which front on the waterway have a minimum park dedication of 5% (or cash in lieu), a minimum of 50% being waterway frontage; in addition, where lots are created by severance and having waterway frontage, cash in lieu of the 5% dedication could be applied to the purchase of waterway frontage lands in the CORTS corridor.

No. 13. That Official Plan policy and the creation of lots which front on the waterway be carried out in such a way that there is minimum of 25% open space on waterway shorelines within the Official Planning area.

...that is, until the government comes along and says 'no'.

The Federal-Provincial planning and co-ordinating group overseeing this venture is called CORTS, and they are in Peterborough (705-743-9311). Call them or me (613-258-3411) in Kemptville for more information.

I hope that you will see fit to assist your subscribers by interpreting these proposals for them and letting them know where they can sound off, before the public meeting in our area; July 29, 1 p.m., at Westport's Rideau Vista School, Highway 42 at Perth Road.

One other thing, CORTS is not a work-doing agency but a co-ordinator between the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Parks Canada who would look after seeing that their appropriate governing agencies get work done.

ORVILLE EAVESDROPS

Dear Editor:

It was drawn to my attention that I was given mention in your 'Bird's Eye View' column, July 5th edition.

Anyone in public office can expect to be quoted, and being a firm believer in the freedom of the press, I have no argument with this.

However, I feel the press have an obligation to the public to report accurately. Printing what is heard by eavesdropping leaves a lot to be desired and a statement can be taken completely out of context.

I don't appreciate suppositions when the facts are readily available.

The fact of the matter is that I was asked by an American boat racer if I knew where the Mayor of Deseronto was and when I enquired a member of the Lions Club advised me that he was not present.

At the end of the awards presentation, John Sibthorpe asked me to say a few words about the forthcoming Gold Cup Races and in just prior to my remarks, I said 'I really should ask permission from the Mayor of Deseronto, but since he is not here, I guess it's OK for me to bring greetings from Picton.'

There was no intent to malign the Mayor of Deseronto as could be construed by the article.

Yours truly,
D.A. King,
Mayor

LIBRARY NOTES

If you are having trouble keeping cool, the library has three new books to chill your bones.

There is Garner's 'Murder has Your Number', a novel for who-dun-it fans. For suspense read Ross's 'Sleeping Dogs' and, for a taste of the beyond, read Anson's 'The Amityville Horror' which is supposedly an account of real events.

Those of you who like to sit back in your chairs rather than on the edge may want James Michener's 'Chesapeake'. And, for people comparing the cost of drugs, the library has a copy of the Parcoe booklet.

The library has bought a number of children's books with its Lion's Club Grant so be watching for new preschool titles in the library and upcoming Library Notes.

The County Cupboard spills the beans

GARDEN BOUNTY

After uncounted hours of seeding, planting, cultivating, weeding, watering, mosquito swatting, cursing at woodchucks and other pests large and small, you have a garden finally bursting with fresh vegetables, or your neighbour has.

Beans are always plentiful and the ways of handling them deliciously are also so numerous that we will spend this week and next on this vegetable alone.

The first helpful information concerns the seasons that complement string beans and perk up their flavour. The herbs you will want to use are basil, bay leaves, oregano, savory and parsley. Among the seed try drill, mustard seed, and sesame seeds. These blends will also enhance string beans: barbecue spice, fine herbs, Italian seasoning.

The weather still being so hot, no self-respecting housewife will choose to spend any more time in the kitchen than she needs to. Therefore, this week's recipes will handle green beans in cold salad form, and remember to cook beans ONLY until they are tender but still firm in texture.

Green beans and basil vinaigrette

Green beans, cut, 1 lb. (4 cups)
Dijon mustard, 1 tsp
Lemon juice, 1 tbsp
Sugar, 2 tsp
Vegetable oil, 1/2 cup
Garlic clove, crushed, 1
Basil, 1 1/2 tsp
Onion, sliced, 1
Salt and pepper to taste

— Cook beans in salted water until tender but still firm. Drain and run under cold water to cool immediately. Dry on absorbent paper towels.

— In a small bowl, blend the mustard with the lemon juice and sugar.
— Whisk in or beat in the oil, a few drops at a time, until the sauce is smooth and well blended. Stir in garlic and seasonings.

— Mix with beans and onion rings until they are well coated.

— Cover and refrigerate at least overnight, stirring once or twice during refrigeration if possible.

Serve as an accompaniment to cold cuts or barbecued hamburgers.

Italian green beans and potato salad

Small new potatoes, well scrubbed, 1 lb.
Cut green beans, 2 cups
Cheese Dressing
Olive or vegetable oil, 1/4 cup
Red wine vinegar, 1/4 cup
Parmesan cheese, grated, 2 tbsps
Seasoned salt, 1 tsp
Oregano, 1/2 tsp
Pepper, 1 tsp
Escarole or other lettuce in bite size

pieces, 2 cups
Grated Parmesan cheese

— Cook potatoes just until tender, drain, cool, peel, cut into cubes.

— Cook green beans also just until tender, drain.

— Make cheese dressing: in jar with tight-fitting cover, combine all ingredients, shake to mix well.

— In large bowl, combine potato, beans and cheese dressing; toss lightly to coat vegetables well. Refrigerate, covered, until very well chilled, at least two hours.

— Just before serving, toss escarole or lettuce with potato and beans. Generously sprinkle top with grated cheese. Serves 6.

Gourmet luncheon salad

Diced cooked potatoes, 1 1/2 cups
Diced cooked chicken, 1 1/2 cups
Finely cut cooked string beans, 1 1/2 cups
Anchovy fillets, 12
Capers, 3 tbsps
Basil, chopped, 2 tbsps
Vinaigrette sauce
Lettuce leaves
Tomatoes, quartered, 4

— Combine potatoes, chicken, beans, anchovy fillets and capers. Sprinkle with basil.

— Dress with vinaigrette sauce*
— Arrange on lettuce leaves in a bowl and garnish with tomato quarters. Serves 4.

* Vinaigrette Sauce:
6-8 tbsps olive or vegetable oil, 2 tbsps wine vinegar, salt, freshly ground pepper, a generous portion of chopped parsley, all shaken together in a jar.

confirming that FCD (Fern Cote Developments Ltd.) does not hold a Public Commercial Vehicle Operating Licence. It would appear that those of your concerns which this Ministry can address have been answered by the cancellation of vehicle registrations by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles under Section 27 of the Highway Traffic Act. The assignment in bankruptcy filed by FCD Ltd. would seem to ensure that the firm has ceased to operate.

That means there won't be any more problems with trucks from that particular company, but Mr. Williams and other neighbours are still anxious to prevent the site from being used as a trucking terminal again.

Their viewpoint will be expressed at the OMB hearing in Demorestville next week.

Northern Ontario Reserve Band Council learns to be school board about 5 years.

But there are drawbacks to living in isolation. The Reserve is 53 miles north west of Fort Francis and supplies come in mainly by air.

Each teacher is allowed to bring in 1,500 pounds a year. This seems like a lot but it has to include everything. Clothing and food use a lot of the weight and, if a teacher wants something like a snowmobile, which is almost a necessity, there goes another large chunk of the allowance.

The social life is nil, unless you like bingos, square dancing and fish fries. 'I always advise teachers to bring their own records, record players, books, etc.', Ms. Marsh said. They're all heavy and all part of the weight quota.

The school and housing accommodations are heated with oil, which is brought in from a trading post about three miles from the Reserve.

'Oil comes in on a converted military landing craft — a 'duck'. 'It looks like a wierd beast coming across the lake,' she said. 'They took off the machine gun part, but it's still the camouflaged colour from the second world war.'

The members of the band do some shopping at the trading post for staples, but the cost is horrendous. And they trap, hunt and fish to supplement the staples.

Ms. Marsh is a graduate of Queen's University, with an MA degree. She is working towards her PhD.

She was teaching in the Fort Francis—Rainy River area when the opportunity for steering the new experiment on the Reserve came up, so was used to some of the problems in the north country.

She thinks the system is going to be successful. 'As far as techniques and skills are concerned, there is no question that it is superior to the previous teaching system,' she said.

Great Lakes pollution causes concern to many people

The writer points out that, although the public had plenty of opportunity for input into the recommendations, little interest has been shown.

This was not quite the case in this area. A large number of people attended the public meeting of the CORTs Advisory Committee in Trenton a few weeks ago and showed great interest in such topics as the financial feasibility of municipalities or conservation authorities funding weed control programs as proposed by CORTs; the spread of aquatic plants; development of tourism and recreation facilities along shorelines and the prohibition of development along narrow channels.

However, those who did not participate are getting another opportunity. A public meeting is scheduled for July 29 at Westport's Rideau Vista School.

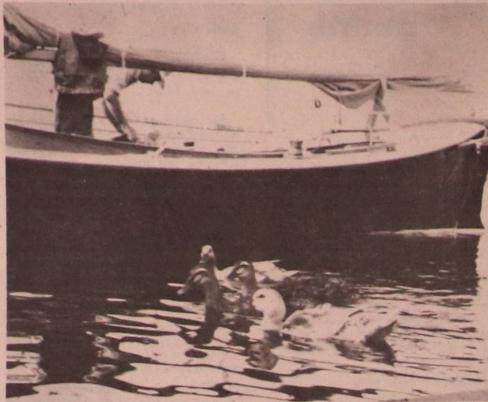

The CORTs people are not the only ones who have been working to clean up the waters in the Quinte area.

The International Joint Commission has also been hearing input at regional meetings too. Pollution of the Great Lakes from land use has been discussed at Kingston and other centres.

On July 21, a day-long hearing is scheduled in Windsor to learn public reactions to a series of new and revised Great Lakes water quality objectives. The Commission holds such hearings from time to time to ensure that Government, industry, associations, citizens' groups and individuals have an opportunity to present their views for consideration by the Commission before it formulates its recommendations to the Governments of Canada and the United States.

The Commission was formally advised that 8 of the recommendations of the Great Lakes Water Quality Board, have been included in the soon-to-be-signed 1978 Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement between Canada and the United States. Agreement has been reached on allowable levels for copper, iron, parathion, hydrogen sulphide, nickel, mirex, Guthion and ammonia. Further consideration will be given to acceptable levels for thermal pollution, chlorine, silver and cyanide, and emphasis will be placed on these four at the Windsor hearing. Anyone, whether on his own behalf or in a representative capacity, may offer pertinent information at the inquiry.

The Federal Government is active in another area affecting water quality too. Fisheries and Environment Canada has just sent out copies of a glossy brochure entitled 'Planning Work Near the Water!', which advises that, if you are, you had better check Canada's revised Fisheries Habitat Protection laws first, to avoid trouble later.

Sportsmen and wildlife must share the water in the Great Lakes basin

These laws have recently been revised to give greater protection to the sensitive areas on which fish depend for growth and life.

Fish habitats are defined as 'spawning grounds and nursery, rearing, food supply and migration areas on which fish depend, directly or indirectly, in order to carry out their life processes.' In other words, the habitats include not only the water in rivers, lakes, streams and oceans but the total surroundings in which plants and other life forms interact to make fish life possible.

Fish habitats can be damaged by small as well as big projects. A poorly-installed culvert on a farm lane crossing a salmon or trout stream can block fish migration.

The Minister responsible for the Fisheries Act can now require a developer to submit complete information, including plans, specifications, studies and samples for scrutiny and, if a possible danger to a fish habitat is shown, the Minister can order the plans to be changed. The law provides for fines up to $50,000, or up to two years imprisonment.

Inn's modern menus would surprise pioneer travellers

For more than 200 years, ferries have been operating across the Bay of Quinte near Glenora, bringing travellers, businessmen, and new residents to Quinte's beautiful Isle.

Glenora was a natural stopping off place. United Empire Loyalists, who had been given grants of land along the Ontario shoreline, were quick to see the possibilities of water power from the Lake on the Mountain, high above the Bay, and a series of mills was established below the mountain at Glenora.

Travelling then was slow and inns sprang up, at frequent intervals along the roads, to feed the hungry travellers. One of the inns was the building now called the Stone Mills House, just east of the Glenora Ferry. Originally a store house for the mill complex, it was later used as an inn for many years. At that time, it was a three-storey building, but the top floor was removed some time before it became a house for Roy White and his family. Now Stone Mills House is back in the business of serving food again. Liz Valteau is the new 'inkeeper'.

The name, Valteau, was associated with the original mill property. A Lt. Peter Valteau came to the area with Major Van Alstyne and helped set up the mill complex. Mrs. Valteau believes he was one of her husband's ancestors.

The food served there now is a far cry from the plain fare served in pioneer times when food supplies were difficult to come by. A luncheon menu now will include such culinary delights as pissaladiere, onions cooked in olive oil, put into a pie shell and heated up with anchovies, olives and other delicacies.

Such gourmet dishes were unknown to Mrs. Valteau herself when she was growing up in rural England. 'I didn't get interested in food or cooking until I got married and we spent a lot of our holidays in France,' she said. 'What an eye-opener after being brought up on dull English food.'

Liz came to Canada about 20 years ago and lived in Toronto, but she had seen, and loved the County, and hoped one day to be able to settle here.

LIZ VALTEAU — 'INKEEPER'

Meanwhile, she was working at Queen's Park and did a bit of catering for her friends. Her boss was a Member of Parliament who did a lot of entertaining. 'Sometimes I would cater a meal for his guests,' she said. 'He told me I was wasting my time as a secretary when I was such a good cook and he encouraged me to follow up my dream of owning a place of my own.'

'I was terrified about the idea of starting up my own business but I had a bit of luck, an old aunt lent me some money, and I had my family's support. So I decided it was now or never.'

'Friends of mine in Picton noticed this beautiful old place and told me about it.'

Municipalities must pay school tax levy

Provincial grants to schools have not been keeping pace with increased costs and local taxpayers have had to pick up a larger share of the tab. School systems are funded from two sources...from the Province by means of legislative grants out of provincial revenues, and from local property taxes.

The Provincial government set itself an austerity target growth of 6.9% overall. But school boards aren't getting even this much of an increase...grants are up only 4.7%.

Schools are experiencing declining enrolments, but this does not necessarily mean immediate comparable cost reductions. Fixed costs, such as debt service charges, insurance premiums and support staff, still go on.

School boards have been caught in the middle and taxpayers have been screaming.

Municipalities can protest school tax levies all they want to...but they're still going to have to come up with the money anyway.

North Marysburgh Township in Prince Edward County, Adolphustown Council in Lennox and Addington, and the Village of Stirling in Hastings have found this out.

PRINCE EDWARD

The North Marysburgh Township Council passed a resolution a few weeks ago, restricting payment of the 1978 education tax levy to an amount equalling that of the previous year.

In Prince Edward County, municipalities must come up with half of the year's tax levy by June 30. North Marysburgh did pay $50,000 by June 30...which was half the 1977 levy. But half of the amount levied for 1978 would have been about $70,000...so the Township's payment was about $20,000 short. Total levy in 1977 was about $100,000 and in 1978 had jumped to about $140,000.

'We've told them we're going to charge them interest,' said Harry Jacobs, new director of education in Prince Edward. 'Under the Education Act, it isn't legal for them to take this action.'

'However,' he added, 'we have also written to them, indicating our willingness to go over the budget with them.'

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

In the Lennox and Addington School board area, Adolphustown Council was the one with the formal protest, which they made to the board, back in April.

'Council didn't want to go so far as to say they would withhold the levy,' Clerk Betty Miller said. 'They thought that was too strong.'

Council voted unanimously to advise the Lennox and Addington board that the 17.15% increase in levy over 1977 is 'inflationary, exorbitant, beyond the financial resources of the Township and unacceptable...' and pointed out that in view of the Ontario Government's recommendations to practice restraints in setting budgets, and anti-inflationary measures set by the Federal Government, 'the increase was unacceptable.'

A copy of the resolution was sent to each of the 13 municipalities under the board and five endorsed it. A letter, agreeing with the resolution, was also received from James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward Lennox, Mrs. Miller said.

The Ministry of Education was also advised of Council's resolution.

'We didn't hear anything from the Lennox and Addington Board, so we got in touch with them again and Colin McLeod sent us a letter explaining the levies and what they were for,' Mrs.

ARC Industries one step in new policies to get handicapped into the working world

The focus of assistance to the mentally retarded in Ontario has changed in the last decade...and the objective now is to get the handicapped out of institutions and integrated into the community.

Lennox and Addington has been well in the forefront of this movement for some time now.

Some years ago, the Mentally Retarded Association in the county, concerned over the fact that there was no education program for mentally retarded children, got a school started for them. The school is now at Morven.

When the Ontario Department of Education took over this responsibility, the MR Association put more of its efforts into helping mentally retarded adults, and the Adult Rehabilitation Centre (ARC Industries), just north of Napanee, is one result of their hard work.

EDITORIAL

The International Year of the Child (IYC) is being observed around the world in 1979.

Now, there may still be some Canadians who think, when we talk about children in need, that we're referring only to those poor little waifs in the third world countries.

Not so. There are two million Canadian children from 600,000 families who do not have enough money. These children do not start life with an equal chance. They get sick more often, earn less during their lifetimes and die sooner than other Canadians.

This was pointed out in a speech to the International Youth Magistrates' Conference recently by the Honourable Monique Bégin, Canada's Minister of National Health and Welfare, who told the conference that the statistics that cross her desk 'show the tangled social mess that begins with poverty and unemployment and branches out to such things as violent crime, depression and sickness, early death and suicide, child abuse and other violence in the family.'

Without usurping the role of the family, society generally has a number of duties towards children, and children have rights that must be safeguarded and fostered, she suggested, and said there was no doubt that families, and particularly poor families, need the support of the wider society.

Margaret Mead, well-known anthropologist, at one time also pointed up the responsibility of the whole society for the children in it, as follows: 'We now expect a family to achieve alone what no other society ever expected an individual family to accomplish unaided. In effect, we call upon the individual family to do what a whole clan used to do.'

Canada's Department of Health and Welfare has given high priority to more high quality day care services, and is moving to protect children whose well-being has already been threatened or undermined, through direct programs aimed at alleviating family stress and poverty itself.

The Canadian Government will be contributing $1 million to the private sector for projects and activities for Canadian participation during IYC.

'In keeping with the United Nations' resolution, we will be working close to home for the most part during the IYC,' Ms. Bégin said. 'My fondest hope is that the year will give us an added impetus in making this a better country for all its young people, rich and poor alike.'

And, Amen, from us.

Must pay school levies

Miller said, 'Councillor Harold Allison has been given the letter for study.'

Adolphstown has already paid the first two installments due on the school tax levy.

HASTINGS

The Village of Stirling, in Hastings County, sent a letter to the board on April 14, saying the Council didn't feel they could accept the amount requested for school taxes.

The business administration office of the Hastings Board of Education checked with the Ontario Ministry of Education and learned that Stirling should appeal directly to the Ontario Municipal Board.

The Village has taken this action but has had no reply yet.

Heard a piece on the radio yesterday about how they've found this herb drug that helps your memory. Seems it does old folks a power of good, specially with what they call 'long range memory'. Now I been noticing over the years how I can't seem to recall things as fast as I used to. It ain't so much my long range memory as needs fixing up though. It's the short range that gives me trouble. Like where did I put my specs yesterday. Elma says I got a memory like a sieve, so I reckon when she hears about his stuff she might be after me to get some, but maybe not, neither one of us holds with taking pills if'n we can help it.

Not that I think it'd ever get on the market. All them politicians wouldn't care for stuff in the drug stores that would let folks remember what all they promised in their election campaigns.

Funny how folks is different, ain't it I was reading about them old fellers in Russia and South America what lives to be well over a hundred and still as spry as ever - skipping up and down mountains like nobody's business, instead of ambling around as if they're two blocks short of a full load like so many old folks round here. All sorts of clever experts have been studying them, trying to figure out how come they're still so hale and hearty. Must be the life they live. Plenty of exercise running up and down them hills, no TV and good plain food.

Now if'n our old folks is missing some chemical that's making them get old too soon, I reckon it's on account of all the junk we get to eat. Fair turns my stomach to see some of the stuff they sell to the young uns these days. You ever see them moon rocks that crackle and spit in your mouth? And all these breakfast cereals they got out. I looked on the side of one of the boxes in the supermarket and I tell you if'n my hay didn't test out better than that I'd be worried about feeding it to my animals, let alone kids. Suppose the kids wouldn't think much of a bowl of chopped hay for breakfast though. The more I think on it, the more it seems to me that we know a heck of a lot more about feeding livestock than about feeding people. Suppose it pays better to keep stock healthy when you got money invested. Now if'n folks ain't too well, you get to make a profit from all the medicines as well as the junk food.

Sure makes you think, don't it?

Carrying on an old tradition 'The Glen House'

She bought it about 18 months ago and has been there since June of last year.

Liz has kept the old-fashioned charm of the inn intact. Small tables with checkered cloths and hand-written menus, are set under the deep window sills and on the screened porch.

Durer prints hang on the walls and over the huge old brick fireplace.

She didn't have to do too much renovation. But she did have to invest in some expensive equipment...two refrigerators, two electric stoves, a freezer and the latest acquisition, a commercial dishwasher.

Kim Simpson, uses her off-duty time to help out at the skateboard competitions in the Picton Arena.

'It's great,' says her 16-year-old son, Simon, who helps her handle the business during the summer months. 'Instead of finishing up at one in the morning we're done by eleven now.'

'Simon's speciality is salad dressing,' his mother said. 'People are always asking what he puts in it.'

In addition to Simon, Liz has three other teenagers working for her. Two of them are from the county...David Hope, 15 of Glenora, and Kim Simpson, 14 of Picton. A young family friend, 15-year-old Felicity Endicott of Toronto makes up the fifth member of the staff.

The job is a first full-time one for all four teenagers.

'All this crap about teenagers not working,' Liz said. 'They're great. They wait on tables and do a lot of joe jobs. And kids like sleeping in, so the late hours don't bother them.'

A lot of planning goes into feeding restaurant guests. She buys what she can locally. 'I'm keen on freshness,' but sometimes has to go to Belleville or Kingston.

The restaurant can accommodate about 15 to 18 people, at one sitting. 'And that's all we like to serve,' she said. 'With a second sitting, you'd be rushing people through and I think it's nice to be able to sit and take your time.'

When she opened the business a year ago, she got a little discouraged at times, but now she is breaking even.

About 90% of the guests are from the county or the area between Glenora and Kingston. This local trade may encourage her to stay open through the whole winter.

And she is happy to have found the people here so nice and friendly. 'I grew up in the country and I know people are sometimes hostile to newcomers but I haven't found that here,' she said.

Teamwork gets the jobs done quickly. Simon Valteau, Felicity Endicott and David Hope are busy in the kitchen.

Quinte News Round Up

HOW WOULD LEVESQUE WRITE IT?

The people in Bath are obviously proud of their English background. New street and road signs have been going up all over the area, but those in Bath are unique...the printing is in an old English script.

Maybe that would be a good idea for the English in Quebec to try, now that signs in the English language are taboo. Nobody yet has said you can't keep the English culture by using English script.

A SUDDEN STOP

Drivers would be well advised to keep one foot near the brake pedal in Sophiasburgh Township these days.

Some road construction has been going on, without any warning signs in advance.

Travelling along County Road 5 the other day, we started the left turn down towards Picton and found a big 'detour, road closed' sign facing us. It would have been nice to be forewarned so we could have turned down county road six instead.

CORNUCOPIA

By Ann McGill

Recently a friend of mine was looking for a craftsman to do a very special job in craft that is uncommon. I referred him to the Ontario Crafts Council at 346 Dundas St. West in Toronto, who were able to put him in touch with the right person.

The Ontario Crafts Council is one of the most useful and effective arts organizations in Ontario.

They have recently published a number of comprehensive booklets that are invaluable to all craftspeople. They can be ordered through the Resource Centre, 346 Dundas St. West, Toronto.

Craft Sources in Canada.

A 21-page guide that lists government agencies concerned with crafts, national organizations and provincial organization, craft courses in Canada, and craft periodicals in Canada. $2.80

Craft Education in Canada.

Lists the universities, colleges, studios and retail outlets that offer courses in leather, enamel, glass, metal, clay and wood. $2.30.

Directory of Suppliers of Craft Materials.

An excellent guide to retail and wholesale suppliers across Canada. It includes distributors, importers, manufacturers, with names, addresses, phone numbers and people to contact. $3.80.

Annual and Biennial Crafts Fairs and Exhibitions in Ontario.

This gives a monthly breakdown of shows in Ontario with dates, location and names of people to contact. Entry deadlines, prizes and awards, and booth or table fees are also listed. $2.80.

Resource Lists: Embroidery and Cretel Resources ($1.30) Macrame Resources ($1.30) and Patchwork Quilting Resources ($1.80).

Basic information on courses, resource people and suppliers.

Self-Promotion/Self-Publicity.

Examines every aspect of self-promotion, setting a price range, selecting a gallery, different types of submissions, contract negotiations, courses on business education for craftsmen. $2.30

Quinte residents will be able to enjoy the much-acclaimed Charlottetown Festival production of Anne of Green Gables in the fall. The Canada Council has announced grants of $35,000 to enable the Festival Company to tour 17 cities in Ontario.

An excellent publication has just arrived on our desk from Belleville, The Arts and Crafts News. It contains articles about all the arts and crafts peoples and stores in the Quinte area as well as an excellent map showing where they are located. The publishers tell me that it is available free at local stores, restaurants, motels and tourist offices. Pick one up. You will use it all year round.

Several other drivers came along about the same time and were similarly frustrated.

GRANT TO HELP CURE ALCOHOLICS

A $10,000 grant has been awarded to Addiction Training Assessment Counselling System (ATAC) Belleville, by the Ontario Ministry of Health, which awards grants-in-aid to alcohol and drug community projects.

The ATAC System, Cavell Block, Belleville General Hospital, is presently incorporating itself as a non-profit organization. Plans call for the operation of two centres in Bancroft and Belleville to offer addiction counselling, assessment, referral and consultation to persons with alcohol or drug dependency problems.

The grant to the Belleville service is for the period October 1, to next March 31.

SPECIAL SESSION

Adolphstown Township Council held a special session recently to resolve matters regarding the issuance of building permits and the enforcement of by-laws.

A motion was passed to request R. Whitmore, by-law enforcement officer, to complete a number of assignments prior to the regular council meeting of August 1, at which time, Council in full session may review his terms of employment.

TRACTOR ROADOE

This summer and fall, 15 tractor Safety Roadoes have been scheduled in Ontario...one of them in the Quinte area.

Tractor drivers from Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland and Prince Edward counties will have a chance to show their skills on September 12, at the Belleville Fair.

NAPANEE CANOE ROUTE

A canoe route in the Napanee Region Conservation Authority area is one of the items on the agenda for the next meeting of the group, today.

Other matters on the agenda are project development status, multi-year forecast and master planning.

Handicapped learning skills and work habits at ARC Industries

'ARC serves a double purpose,' said Bill Pollard, program manager. 'First, it provides training in work skills with the possibility of entering into competitive labour, and, second, it provides long-term, sheltered employment. Some of the handicapped adults never advance beyond here.'

The work done at ARC Industries is mainly sub-contract work for other companies...assembling, packaging, collating, screen printing, furniture restoration (one of the big projects) and, in summer, lawn care programs.

'We like to think of it as a competitive business,' Mr. Pollard said. 'Other companies now recognize that there's a good service available to them, and our charge is as nearly competitive as possible.'

'Because the workers are unemployable when they come to us, they get GAINS pensions. While they are here, they get incentive pay at three different levels, which they keep track of by colour coding on progress charts. The more effort they put into it, the more money they can earn. But it has to be kept low so it won't affect their pensions.'

'Some of them are heavily medicated, so they are slower and not as self-motivated,' he pointed out.

'You buy a frig or anything else with a motor and you might never realize that a mentally handicapped person had a part in making it,' he said, holding up a three-part, sprung, relay they were making for motors. 'We turn out 5,000 of these a week. It's a monotonous job and hard to get other people to work at it.'

He had a lot of praise for the people working at ARC... 'They're all good workers,' he said.

Work training isn't the only kind of skill the ARC workers learn. They are also taught life skills...food preparation and hygiene...to help them adjust to near-normal living.

Four days a week they bring their lunches but, on one day, they prepare a meal in the specially-designed kitchen where wheel chairs can be accommodated. Also, one day a week, they have a recreation period, skating in the winter and swimming in the summer. This introduces them to the recreation areas and gets them out into the community.

ARC Industries was started in an old school building on the Slash Road and moved into its new quarters about a year ago.

The Provincial Ministry of Community and Social Services pays 80% of the budget and the work done by the handicapped adults pays for the other 20%.

'If we make more than 20% of the budget, the Province has less to pay,' Mr. Pollard said. 'But, if we make less, then we have to get it from local help.'

ARC can accommodate a maximum number of 40 adults, age 18 or over. Instructors are on a one-to-ten basis, and then there is administrative staff.

Some of the handicapped adults have already received some education, some have little or no formal education. Some live at home, some have come from institutions and live in boarding houses.

Transportation is not provided, and some of the people have to come 25 or 30 miles every day. Sometimes they ride on school buses, where they pay for it under special arrangements. Sometimes parents bring them, and others ride on the ARC bus, for which a charge is made.

The local MR Association is still very active and recently opened an 8-person residence on Camden Road. There is a counsellor on hand but it is not a house-parent arrangement. 'We like to make every program as realistic as possible,' Mr. Pollard said.

The Association also hires an adult protection service worker who helps with dental appointments, arranging lodgings, banking and similar activities. This worker has accommodations at ARC Industries building.

The Lennox and Addington Association is a volunteer group. President is Mrs. Bernice Pringle, who is with the Victorian Order of Nurses in Napanee.

Mr. Pollard got involved in this work through his church activities. He taught Sunday School where there were several retarded people. Later he took a course at York University. During the summer, he supervises a summer camp for the retarded for one week, at Roblin Lake. 'We were there this summer, just before the fire at the Salvation Army Camp,' he said.

He is particularly proud of the furniture restoration facilities at ARC. He taught furniture refinishing in Napanee, at night school, and has an antique shop of his own. One of the instructors, Mrs. Georgina Martin, learned her furniture refinishing at Napanee night school courses.

ARC Industries has just closed down for a holiday, but they'll all be back on the job in two weeks time.

Agriculture third most dangerous occupation in Canada

Agriculture is ranked as the third most dangerous occupation in Canada, and Ontario. In Ontario, the only industries that have a higher frequency of injuries are mining and forestry.

Last year, in Ontario, nearly 2,100 farm workers had a lost time injury. A greater number than this sustained an injury serious enough to require medical attention. The Farm Safety Association also recorded 54 fatalities, and yet this figure is estimated to be only half of the actual farm fatalities in Ontario.

Last year, in Ontario, nearly 2,100 farm workers had a lost time injury. A greater number than this sustained an injury serious enough to require medical attention. The Farm Safety Association also recorded 54 fatalities, and yet this figure is estimated to be only half of the actual farm fatalities in Ontario.

Millions of dollars were paid out in compensation benefits to injured farm workers, and countless millions were lost in the direct and indirect costs associated with these injuries.

Agriculture touches every Canadian

Many Canadians are beginning to realize that agriculture is much more than just something farmers, ranchers and country folk do.

Webster's dictionary defines agriculture as, 'the science or art of cultivating the soil, producing crops, and raising livestock and in varying degrees the preparation of these products for man's use and their disposal (as by marketing)'.

A quick glance at this definition shows that agriculture is a complicated subject. Moreover, agriculture in Canada touches the lives of every Canadian.

Food for the country's meals is varied, of good quality and compared to many other developed countries is a good buy. Canadian agriculture produces an abundance of some foodstuffs which can be exported and given as food aid. Money generated by agricultural exports helps keep the economy moving and creates other jobs for Canadians.

Agriculture as a part of Canadian life dates back to Louis Hebert and his start of farming in 1617 when he cleared land near Quebec City to grow grain.

In 1976 there were 300,118 farms listed in the farm census. And 474,000 people or five per cent of the national labour force were employed directly in agriculture. If the related food processing, beverage and leather industries are added then the total number employed equals 721,000 or 7.9% of the labour force.

Even though the number of farmers has been decreasing over the past two decades, their productivity has increased five fold. Before the Second World War one farmer produced enough food to feed himself, and 11 other people, yet by 1977 the farmer produced enough to feed himself and 52 others.

165,976,000 ACRES

Canadian farms occupied 165,976,000 acres of land in 1976 of which about 41 per cent was planted in crops and the balance used for pasture or other uses. The livestock population totaled 21 million cattle, hogs and sheep. And at last count there were more than 105 million poultry.

That's the agricultural picture 'down on the farm'. But these facts and figures do not include the wholesale or retail food trade nor other related agribusinesses such as farm machinery, farm financing or seed and feed firms.

Farm cash receipts for 1977 totalled $10 billion while farm operators' total net income was slightly more than $4 billion.

Agricultural exports equalled $4.4 billion...about 10 per cent of Canada's export trade.

Grains and grain products made up 62 per cent of agricultural exports over the first half of the 1970's. Most of these grains came from the Prairies. Overall agricultural exports accounted for about 10 per cent of Canadian export.

What is agriculture?

Agriculture is first and foremost food, but it is also part of the Canadian heritage and an important part of the Canadian economy and lifestyle.

safety and health programs are an asset instead of a liability. The economics of accidents and injuries can readily be recognized by any capable manager. The modern farmer, particularly if he hires a number of people, now accepts health and safety programs as part of his function as a manager.

Bill 70, the new proposed health and safety legislation in Ontario, is intended to include a number of groups not covered by health and safety regulations now, including agriculture.

While the main intent of this legislation will ultimately be to reduce injuries, it will also force farm employers to accept health and safety programs as a natural part of their operation. Hopefully, the standards established by such legislation will allow agriculture to advance in the field injury prevention, as successfully as it has in other areas.

LIBRARY NOTES

Indulge your appetite with some new cookbooks from the library. There is 'Michael Field's Cooking School' a comprehensive guide to cooking with detailed entertainment suggestions.

'Recipes from an Old Farmhouse' offers dishes with a rustic appeal and 'Wines for Everyone' discusses the beverage aspect of a meal.

For those interested in the health area of cooking, the library offers 'Cooking Under Pressure' and 'Sunny-side Up', a book that deals with creative cooking within the guidelines of special diets. The above are just a few waiting at the library to be tested in your kitchen.

The library staff apologizes for some of the dismay patrons may encounter, but the card catalogue is being overhauled and this requires space.

The library will be closed from Aug. 7 to Aug. 18 while the staff is on vacation.

The County Cupboard spills the beans

As promised, this week's recipes will help you handle all those green beans you have been harvesting, but these are to be served hot.

The first recipe is so simple you might be tempted to skip it altogether but don't. A favourite in many Quebec homes, it is probably an improvement on Haricots Verts a la Lyonnaise which contains finely-sliced onions sauteed in butter. I say 'improvement' because green beans prepared in this way are delicious enough to stand on their own.

Fèves Vertes a la Canadienne

— Boil 2-4 cups fresh green beans, whole, in salted water until tender. Drain well.

— In a cast iron frying pan melt ¼ to 1/3 cups butter. Add the beans, season with salt and pepper.

— Saute on moderately high heat until the beans are very slightly browned.

— Heap onto each plate and pass the vinegar to be sprinkled on to taste - as for french fried potatoes.

Green beans Alfredo

Butter Sauce:

Butter, 1½ tbsps.

Flour, 2 tbsps.

Boiling salted water, 1¼ cups

Egg yolk, 1

Cold water, 1 tbsps.

Butter, 6 tbsps.

Salt and white pepper to taste

Green beans, cut, 2 cups

Parmesan cheese, grated, ¼ cup

Oregano, 1 tsp.

— Cook green beans in lightly salted water until just tender. Drain.

— Meanwhile, make butter sauce. Melt the 1½ tbsps. of butter, add the flour, mix moisten with the boiling salted water added a little at a time. Stir vigorously with a whisk and add the egg yolk mixed with the cold water. With the pan over very low heat and stirring continuously, add the 6 tbsps. of butter which has been divided into small bits. Season with salt and pepper.

— Turn cooked drained beans and butter sauce into serving dish. Sprinkle with the cheese and oregano. Serve.

Green beans Westphalia

Green beans, cut, 4 cups

Butter, 3 tbsps.

Salt, ½ tsp.

Oregano, ¼ tsp.

Dash pepper

2 slices Westphalian ham, cut into strips

— Cook beans until tender and drain

— Melt butter, add beans, salt, pepper, oregano, and Westphalian ham.

— Cook over medium heat, stirring gently, just until heated through Serves 4-6.

Green beans Au Fromage

— Break fresh green beans into 1 inch pieces. Cook in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain.

— Add 2-3 tbsps. shredded Swiss cheese, or Munster cheese, or Danish Blue cheese. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

The cheese melts from the heat of the vegetable making a kind of sauce without any bother.
